Good Soup, Good Service Wall St. in Wonderland National City, Flying Ford in England

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright 1928 by Star Co

CHEFS of many hotels competed in New York to see which could make the best soup. Six wise men, including Clarence H. Mackay's French chef, Combes, allotted first prize to E. Alliot.

That competition means more to human welfare than the average man realizes, more, for instance, than any Olympic competition.

Soups contain vitamines and other valuable nourishment and stimulate the flow of digestive fluids. To manufacture good soup and sell a great deal of it is to render public service.

Usual Wall Street doings yesterday, with a little touch of heart failure in the last hour. "The boys," their Exchange seats worth $500,000, and going up, and stocks going heaven knows where, with more orders than they can fill, feel like "Alice in Wonderland."

Occasionally they pinch themselves to make sure they are awake. Then stocks waver a minute.

Don't gamble, and, above all, don't sell short.

"Big Steel," producing more iron and steel than any European nation, goes climbing up. It went above 170 yesterday.

Some time before he died, the late Judge Elbert Gary said to this writer, "Tell our friend, Nathan Straus, to buy plenty of Steel stock and keep it for his grandchildren." Steel was selling then at about 80. With the 40 per cent stock dividend, a thousand shares of Steel that could then have been bought for $80,000 would have been worth yesterday $238,000.

Get something good in the United States, real estate or securities. Take care of it, and it will take care of you.

Col. Deeds of Dayton, important supporter of aviation, in words and in deeds, is made a director of the National City Bank.

This means that Charles E. Mitchell's gigantic institution, biggest financial unit in the world, takes a serious interest in aviation—a good thing for aviation and the country.

Henry Ford, still branching out, purchases a site on the Thames in England, a mile deep, and establishes enormous showrooms in the heart of London.

Mr. Ford made a separate company of his Canadian business in which stock can be bought, the present price being $610. It was about half of that a year or so ago.

Mr. Ford may start a separate British company for the British Ford business. Use your judgment about buying some stock in that concern, if you can get any.

British labor rejoices. On construction work alone, Ford's new plant will employ thousands of men for the next three years, and when finished provide jobs for 10,000. And they will get wages that Britain hasn't known thus far.

Ford expects to turn out in the beginning 200,000 cars a year in his British plant, about double the total number of automobiles produced in England now.

That will help the British to understand why the United States is prosperous.

Somebody asked: "What would Europe do if we were in difficulties and needed help?"

Will Rogers replies: "Europe would hold a celebration."

Of many European countries, including all the big countries, that would be literally true.

The deep sorrow that a dragoman on the Nile feels when a rival boat runs on the mud would be duplicated in Europe's capitals if this country "ran on the mud." But, fortunately, it won't do that.

There is nothing in that to make us bitter, but there is everything to make us cautious and keep us PREPARED.

Walter Olson, 21-year-old farmer of Illinois, wins the national corn-husking championship, averaging 40 to 44 cars a minute, picking up 26.62 bushels in 80 minutes.

There are few Olsons, and farmers should investigate a machine in which this writer, also a farmer, has recently invested.

It grinds cornstalks, husks, stalks, corn and all to a fine powder, and saves husking. You stack the stalks near the barn, grind them as needed. No part of the stalk is wasted. Ask your dealer, get the machine on trial if you can.

26 BODIES FOUND; HOPE GONE FOR 101 OTHERS

By THEODORE B. GOETZ
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

New York, Nov. 15—Snatched back from death, 57 more survivors of the Vestris landed here early today, some to add their tales of nightmare horror, others their charges of wanton negligence to the picture of the sinking of the liner.

A blunt-nosed tug pushed up the same bay, down which the Vestris proudly bore 328 souls last Saturday, and eight passengers and 49 members of the crew debarked.

At least 70 missing passengers of the 129 aboard the Vestris, mostly women and children, were given up for dead and 57 members of the crew of 200 perished, a revised tabulation by the Lamport and Holt Line shows. Bodies recovered number 26.

Today's survivors came from two lifeboats picked up near the scene of the sinking, 250 miles off the Virginia coast, by the French Tanker Myriam. At midnight the tug took the castaways off the tanker at Quarantine. Its mission accomplished, the Myriam turned out again for London.

With scarcely a signal, the tug came out of the night and eased alongside the quay at 1 o'clock. First the 49 members of the crew filed slowly and silently off, grey army blankets across their shoulders.

Then came the handful of passengers, headed by Herman Hipp of Chicago and Campbell Kellman, of Upper Montclair, N. J.

Heroic Irishman Died at His Post of Duty

Dublin Irish Free State, Nov. 15 (AP)—The Irish Independent said editorially today:

"It would seem as if Michael O'Loughlin (missing wireless operator of the steamship Vestris), whose messages brought help, went down at his post of duty.

"We are proud of the fact that again an Irishman has heroically done his duty, putting all thoughts of his own safety aside. Men of other nations would have done as much.

"An Irishman true to the traditions of his race would do no less."

CLASH AT HOSPITAL INQUIRY

The charge that criticism of the Boston City Hospital is being heard by the special committee of the City Council, while the officials are given no opportunity for defense, created an uproar at the resumed probe of conditions at the institution today.

It was made by Councillor Frederick E. Dowling, not a member of the committee, who was in turn savagely attacked by Councillor Thomas W. McMorrow, whose charges were responsible for the probe.

It followed the story of Mrs. Anna McCarthy of 2388 Washington st., Roxbury, regarding the death of two of her children at the hospital, and the statement of Mrs. Charles McGregor of North Reading that she could get no satisfaction from the trustees concerning the shortage of nurses.

Councillor Dowling, who was sitting with Councillors Ruby and Ward, then asked permission to speak.

"I have been attending these meetings," he said, "deeming it my duty as a councillor, as the matter will eventually come before us. I hold no brief for the trustees or the City hospital.

"I am disturbed, however, at the fact that the committee is apparently willing to hear all evidence of the hospital and but little if any in its defence.

CHANCE FOR DEFENCE.

"I am satisfied with an institution which at the least cares for 20,000 regular patients yearly and 240,000 out patients. I am justified in saying I don't see how I or a councillor can act intelligently if the only information the committee receives is from a few isolated cases.

"I want to ask the committee whether the hospital authorities are to be given an opportunity for defence.

"Some cases are I had a near

S O S CALLS URGED IN VAIN BY 'BLACK GANG'

By DAVID P. SENTNER,
International Staff Correspondent.
New York, Nov. 15—The "black gang" of the coffin ship Vestris—those anonymous slaves who sweat in the bowels of a vessel—knew that the steamer was doomed.

Twenty-three coalstrimmers of the Vestris who arrived today among the rescued aboard the French tanker Myriam declared that he "Vestris left Hoboken with a coal port partially open about four feet above the water line.

RUSH FEDERAL INQUIRY IN SINKING OF VESTRIS

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Correspondent

New York, Nov. 15—While the last of the survivors of the Vestris disaster were being brought into New York today, a rigid investigation of charges of "criminal negligence" and "murder" was begun by the federal government with a view of fixing responsibility for the sinking Monday of the liner in the

JUDGE DUBUQUE DEAD AFTER HUB OPERATION

Judge Hugo A. Dubuque of the Superior Court, jurist, historian and scholar, died today at his Fall River home, at the age of 71.

He underwent an operation at the Massachusetts General Hospital a short time ago, and was taken home only yesterday.

Born November 4, 1857, in Canada, and a graduate of St. Hyacinth's College there, Judge Dubuque came to this country a young man and was graduated from Boston University Law School in 1878. He was admitted to the bar the same year and had practised law in Fall River ever since.

In 1889, 1897 and 1898 he was a representative to the General Court, where he served on the committee on judiciary. In 1900 was city solicitor of Fall River, and in 1911 was appointed to the bench by Governor Foss.

In 1881, Judge Dubuque was married to Miss Annie M. Coughlin, sister of Dr. John W. Coughlin, ex-mayor of Fall River, and three daughters were born to them, Pauline, Helena and Marie.

LATEST LIST PLACES WRECK DEATH TOLL AT 127

A flash of color—Mrs. Conrad S. Slaughter of Chicago—dressed as you would expect a shipwreck survivor to be. She is small, with bright red hair, and wore white duck sailor trousers, a man's shirt, much too large for her, a nondescript sweater, and over her shoulders an army blanket.

Mrs. Slaughter was quickly gathered up by her husband, who was rescued from the Vestris and came in yesterday aboard the American Shipper. He carried his wife to a waiting automobile.

Then Harry Fay, boxer of Pittsburgh, came off with William M. Fields of New York, O. C. Patterson of Edmonton, Alberta; Walter Cadogan of New York and S. Cox of Montreal.

Two of the three wireless operators of the Vestris were among the 49 members of the crew. They are Charles Verchere and James McDonald. Michael O'Loughlin, the chief operator, was still at his key trying to make the weakening signals heard when the Vestris heeled over and went down.

Dr. William Sears, the ship's surgeon, and Leslie Watson, second officer, were also among those rescued by the Myriam.

The members of the crew were bundled into waiting busses chartered by officials of Lamport & Holt, owners of the Vestris, and were not allowed to talk to newspapermen. Too much had been said yesterday, it was indicated.

The Radio Marine Corporation today denied that Capt. Carey sent out an S O S call Sunday night and later a "disregard." The corporation asserts the first distress call came shortly before 10 a. m. Monday.

Revised List Places Toll of Dead and Missing at 127

According to latest figures compiled by the Lamport & Holt Co., 127 persons, including passengers and seamen, are missing, given up for dead, and the bodies of 24 others have been recovered, making a death total of 127.

Two hundred and eleven persons—59 passengers and 152 members of the crew, were definitely known to have been rescued.

Five Coast Guard cutters picked up 24 bodies, but until these are identified it will not be known what, if any, revisions will have to be made in the casualty lists of passengers and seamen.

It was understood, also that the battleship Wyoming had a body on board, but it was not included in the Lamport & Holt list of bodies picked up.

There were 13 children aboard the Vestris, according to the passenger list. There is no report of any children being saved. They have been given up for dead.

There were 33 women in the liner's passenger list and several revisions will have to be made in stewardesses. The number of missing women is put at from 24 to 28. There is a discrepancy between the Lamport & Holt list of passengers missing and the published names of missing passengers; the line listing 59 and the newspapers printing the names of 76. This confusion may have arisen from two causes: First, that some passengers had the same names as members of the crew; second, that, in some instances, a single name was given whereas man and wife both sailed under that name.

The greatest number of bodies was picked up by the U. S. Coast Guard cutter Shaw, which took on board 13. The Davis picked up five and the Acushnet and Tucker each picked up four.

Survivor Fears Romance Wrecked in Sea Tragedy

New York, Nov. 15 (AP)—Gaetano Abbeidini, who was on his way to Buenos Aires to marry the sister of a friend, a girl he had never seen, is afraid his romance is ended.

"I don't believe she would be willing to come back with me by sea now," he explained.

His wedding clothes and presents he was taking south went down on the ship.

Charges by Survivors Start Investigations

The tales of the survivors brought in yesterday by the American Shipper which carried 125 and the Berlin which had 23 of the rescued, have started at least two investigations.

The passengers told of incidents unbelievably at variance with the traditions of the sea—of cowardice among the seamen. They charged negligence, inexperience, improper training and stupidity on the part of Capt. William J. Carey, the ship's master, and his officers.

United States District Attorney Tuttle begins an investigation here today. Another will be conducted by the London Board of Trade and a third by the United States Congress is talked of. Outraged relatives and friends of the dead who have heard survivors explain those deaths demand that blame be fixed.

Everywhere among the rescued passengers it was the same story. How the radio S O S had been delayed, how the passengers forced the captain to call for help, how an S O S when the fate of the ship was apparent ten hours before she sank would have saved all aboard, how slow-fingered sailors stupidly nailed a piece of tin over a gaping hole in a lifeboat.

Then there were the stories of how a boom, negligently insecure, crashed down onto a lifeboat filled with women and children, and how half-filled lifeboats rowed quickly away from struggling, pleading passengers, leaving them to drown.

One of the passengers told a story which placed blame for some of the confusion in another quarter. It was Cadogan, a New York negro, who told of being in one of the first three lifeboats launched. When the boat was filled with 30 persons mostly women, Cadogan said they called to Capt. Carey to lower them.

When the captain ignored them, Cadogan said he whipped out a razor and slashed the ropes which held the lifeboat at the bow, thinking to get it into the water. Limpeas from a pod the passengers were dumped into the sea. Many of them were never seen again.

In this lifeboat was Mrs. Slaughter with her husband. They were separated and neither knew until yesterday that the other had been saved.

"I was numb when I struck the water," Mrs. Slaughter said. "I can't recall much of it in detail. It seemed as though I was under water for five minutes, though, of course, it couldn't have been that long."

Slaughter is an official of the International Harvester Company. Mrs. Slaughter is very attractive. She celebrated her 21st birthday on Tuesday. For part of the day she was in a lifeboat with 27 negroes and one officers officer, Watson.

It was Watson who saved her life, Mrs. Slaughter says. When she was thrown into the debris-filled water from the smashed lifeboat, Watson clove after her and supported her until they were picked up by the negroes.

Rescuer Breaks His Ribs Plunging In to Wreckage

Diving into the wreckage, Watson fractured several ribs. An ambulance waiting at the dock took him to Long Island College Hospital. He was the only casualty aboard the Myriam. Dr. Sears gave him first aid with supplies provided by the Myriam's medicine chest.

Strangely silent in contrast to the volubility of the previously arriving survivors none of the rescued passengers from the Myriam would comment on the management of the Vestris just before and during the abandonment.

Lamport & Holt officials went down the bay to quarantine on the tug to meet the passengers brought by the Myriam.

The officials added three to the number of survivors previously radioed by the master of the Myriam. They gave no names, simply saying the Myriam brought eight passengers and 49 survivors of the crew. The Myriam had sent the names of 54.

Up to this morning the Lamport & Holt line refused to make any answer to the charges of negligence on the part of the crew.

After conferring with officers of the Vestris, David Cook, vice-president of Sanderson and Sons, Inc., operators of the line, issued a long statement which recited the voyages of the Vestris, the storm which overtook her and briefly the incidents of the abandonment.

Even now that three of the rescue ships have brought 206 survivors here, with the U. S. S. Wyoming going to Norfolk, Va., with eight more, and with a composite picture formed from the stories of passengers and crew who were rescued, there is no comprehensive account of the cause of the disaster.

It seems established from the stories of the survivors that the Vestris had a list or took a list soon after leaving here Saturday. All agree that the list was distinct, some say acute, by Sunday evening. And the call for help was not sent out until more than 15 hours later.

Lamport and Holt officials deny that the cargo shifted, that it could possibly have shifted. Members of the crew tell how the cargo, largely automobiles and heavy farm machinery, crashed through a bulkhead and burst into the forecastle.

Others tell of water flooding the coal hold and streaming through supposedly watertight bulkheads into other parts of the hold.

With the list of the ship the water carred articles of the cargo which would glint to the starboard side of the ship, they say, increasing the list. The list grew greater as more water flowed into the hold.

COAL DOOR OPEN

Evan Hampden, Barbados negro who was among the crew arriving today on the Myriam and who was in the boiler room of the Vestris when the water first entered, said:

"Early Sunday night the ship began to list. The list grew to 15 degrees. The starboard coal door was open. It should have been closed before we left the dock in Hoboken. It is not for above the water line. When the ship listed to starboard the water poured in that open coal hole."

Of the passengers arriving yesterday many were bitter in their condemnation of the "slow and sloppy" attempts at salvation. Others were open in criticism of the "inexperienced crew" and "indefinite officers." Some said the condition of the Vestris and her life-saving equipment made the disaster "plain murder." Others charged "criminal negligence" in the operation of the ship and said it was "better so" that the captain had gone down with her.

Cook's statement ignored direct questions put to him in connection with the charges of the rescued passengers. He would make no further comment.

Heading the list of complaints by passengers were that there was a delay in abandoning ship. The captain also failed to warn passengers and crew of the danger, others said. Others charged the lifeboat equipment was defective, and that there was . mishandling of lifeboats.

Still others charged that there was a great delay in lowering the lifeboats. Others declared that one boat was leaking, that flares in lifeboats were wet, and that there

COUNCILLORS STAGE CLASH AT HEARING

CREATE STIR AT INQUIRY IN CITY HOSPITAL DEATHS

relative, a young man, in the City Hospital. His life was despaired of when he was taken in. All the members of the family received the most courteous treatment while he was there. It was a hopeless case and he died there as had been expected. We found no occasion for complaint.

"I'm not satisfied that 250 or even 500 cases of criticism should weigh more heavily than nearly 270,000 successful cases. I suggest that letters be sent to the successful cases and hear what they have to say."

Councillor Robert Gardiner Wilson, Jr., member of the committee, said he assumed Councillor Dowling was not present when the committee opened its proceedings. He read the rules of procedure, stressing the point that the committee would hear no rumors or unsubstantiated charges.

WOMAN IS CALLED.

Chairman John I. Fitzgerald then called Mrs. McGregor and asked if she would be satisfied if the committee incorporated in its report her complaint, or if she cared to make it to the trustees.

The woman said she had been to the trustees and obtained no satisfaction, but agreed to permit the committee to take care of her charges regarding lack of nurses.

Councillor Alfred A. Mahoney, whose charges that his four-year-old daughter bled to death following an adenoid operation, started the probe, then arose.

"I am not going to sit here," he began, "and let any councillor get up here and defend the trustees and the hospital. I take exception when he speaks of satisfaction at the hospital. The previous witness said she got no satisfaction at the hospital.

"Let the councillor or any other councillor who has a statement of that nature to make make it to the committee and not to the public. If it is a case of publicity, I say the committee should not hear them in this hearing.

"I want the people to help the committee, trustees and hospital authorities make the hospital a decent place.

"We can't hear every complaint that is made or we would be here a year. I myself have about 50 letters. All we can do is bring out the most important things."

When McMahon finished Councillor Dowling got to his feet to make another statement, but he was cut off by Chairman Fitzgerald.

CLASH CAUSES STIR.

The passage-at-arms between the councillors stirred up the hearing considerably and the spectators in the balconies listened intently. Several sporadic outbursts of applause were silenced by Chairman Fitzgerald's gavel.

The first witness when the hearing opened today was Mrs. McCarthy. She was not asked her address or the ages of the two children she said died.

The woman testified that her baby Rosa entered the hospital April 8, 1925, with a throat affection. She said physicians at the City hospital were reluctant about admitting the child and only did so after being told that the Longwood hospital said she must be cared for at once. Mrs. McCarthy explained she had first taken the baby to the Longwood hospital, but was told it was quarantined.

"After two weeks," she said, "they operated on my baby, making an incision in her neck under the ear. On May 1 I was notified the child must be discharged. I took her home, but her condition became so serious I went back to the hospital with her to the out patient department. She had bronchial pneumonia and septatema, and died May 15, at home.

Her sister, Anna, contracted the disease from her. I took Anna to the hospital, where she later died."

The witness said her husband was told that a telegram of notification had been sent, but was unable to find any record of it.

"I went to the hospital night after night," she added, "for more than a month while my baby was there. During that time I saw only one nurse, who came in with a doctor one night at 9 p. m."

Ethel Sermon, no address given, said she was sent to the hospital for a mastoid operation, but after laying on a cable for two hours was told the doctors would not operate.

Chairman Fitzgerald then announced that it would be necessary for the committee to hear complaints about a shortage of nurses and orderlies, as the staff of the hospital is being increased with the opening of the new building.

HIRED OWN NURSES

Mrs. William Stromm of 200 Emerson st., South Boston, said her little boy, suffering from meningitis, was sent to the hospital against her wishes. She visited him and found his bandages fastened by common pins, after which she hired two nurses, night and day, and paid the hospital $85 a week. Nevertheless, they sent her a bill, she said. The boy got well.

Mrs. Gertrude Proctor of 16 Beckerstaff st., who was attended by a nurse, and used a cane because of a crippled leg, took the stand. She said her fractured leg was operated on and put in a cast; no better than a box.

RELIEF FROM HABIT-FORMING LAXATIVES

Sufferers from constipation will welcome a remedy that is made to do more than just relieve immediate symptoms! Thalax—it is called. Thalax tends to do away with medicine taking! For besides bringing prompt relief, it so strengthens and tones the bowels themselves, that their natural action is gradually restored, and after a reasonable time no more medicine should be necessary, except possibly at rare intervals. Thalax puts life into bowel muscles that have been relaxed or weakened by too much dosing.

Take one or two Thalax tablets tonight at bedtime. In the morning you will experience a natural movement, without griping or distress. Use Thalax at intervals until your bowel movements becomes normal and natural again, then stop using it. The natural bowel action will continue. No habit will be formed. You will experience no harmful after-effects whatsoever. Instead, the relief will be very noticeable and welcome.

Leading druggists everywhere sell Thalax, 35c per bottle of 30 tablets. If your druggist hasn't it, send direct to the makers, K. A. Hughes Company, Boston, Mass.

EVERETT GIRL CHUMS TO WED

A double wedding will take place tonight in Everett when two officials of the Beacon Oil Co. take as girl chums as brides.

Walter Dickerson Sumner, son of Mrs. Grace Sumner of Newton, will marry Miss Genevieve Gleeta Lantz, secretary to President C. S. Hennessy of the Honihan Motor Co.

Lloyd Nedham Robinson of Everett will take as his bride Miss Mildred Ruth Galbraith, a secretary with the Beacon Oil Co.

The double ceremony will be performed in the home of the second bride's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth K. Galbraith, 191 Linden st., Everett, with the Rev. Hugh MacCallum of Everett officiating.

Following the ceremony, the couple will entrain for New York, from where they will sail Saturday for a three weeks' trip to Bermuda.

On their return, both couples will live at 68 Linden st., Everett.

Miss Lantz is a 1921 graduate of Somerville high school, and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Lester Lantz of Somerville. Sumner was graduated from Brookline high school in 1918.

Miss Galbraith is a graduate of Everett high school, while her husband-to-be attended New York schools.

BAR DYNAMITE ON HUB BOAT

Five cases of dynamite stored illegally and without a permit, it is charged, were ordered removed from the auxiliary brigantine Hydra, at East Boston, today, following a fire aboard the craft.

Capt. Charles J. Van Amburg and Fire Inspector Thomas A. Thomson of the state fire marshal's office, with Ralph A. Perry of the harbor police, will personally witness the removal of the explosives at the Atlantic Works, where the boat is tied up.

The owners of the ship, who are planning to sail tomorrow on a year's cruise in search of unusual sea specimens, were ordered to remove the cargo as it was loaded, with her own employes.

Following its discovery, police were ordered to guard the explosive.

Because of the blaze that burned wires, the sailing of the ship, scheduled for today, was held up until tonight or tomorrow.

HUB ARTIST TO HOLD ONE-MAN SHOW IN PARIS, SAYS BETTY ALDEN

Albert Felix Schmitt to Exhibit Portraits in Galleries Georges Petit

HONORS, GLORIES AND EMOLUMENTS, SPIRITUAL AND material rewards to the painter chap with a genius at lines and colors, marshal themselves about Albert Felix Schmitt. And what he considers the topmost peak in achievement, most significant honor of them all, comes his way next March. At that time he stages a "one-man" show of portraits in the most exclusive gallery in Paris, center supreme of the worlds of art. For many a month, a year or so, the Schmitt studio has been set up in the Hotel Gaulois, high over Paris in France and commanding that social center's most pleasing vistas.

LOVELY LADIES HAVE BEEN HIS SUBJECTS. THE OLD Noblesse of France delight to have a portrait with the Schmitt signature scrawled across it. Near-Royalties command a sitting. And Potentates of the Church deign to have themselves done into oils that will look benignly down on future generations. And ever as he paints, delving cleverly with oils and color mixtures there shine before his eyes the magic dates, March 1-15. His portraits will be hung in the Galleries Georges Petit, 8 Rue Seize in the City by the Seine, and Paris notables will go to see them.

PORTRAITS OF THE COMTESSE DE PINS, the Comtesse Marianna San Laurenco, of Lisbon, Portugal; of Monseigneur Ambroise, Bishop of the Cathedral St. Marie d'Orleon, of Mrs. Benjamin H. Ridgeley of Philadelphia and of Mrs. Albert Felix Schmitt will gaze down from the gallery walls, for the exhibition. And when the Marquis de la Read-Defensa, cousin of the King of Spain, comes back to Pau his royal lineaments are to be done into oils, that they may grace the exhibition also. Such a potpourri of International great ones should make any one-man show a success, and the Schmitt exhibitions always have been that, both here and abroad.

NOTABLES HAVE A WAY of frequenting the Schmitt studio apartment at the Hotel Gaston, with the result that to be informally entertained by the artist and his wife, who was Miss Esther R. S. Cattell of Philadelphia, is quite the thing. Recently the Bishop of Amiens spent an evening in the studio, and intends to make Paris a special objective when the exhibition is on, just to see the portrait of Monseigneur Ambroise. And more recently still, a British Royal Navy officer of rank descended on the studio in the gold-braided person of Admiral Sir Arthur Winslow, for whom a sumptuous entertainment was given.

WHEN SUNLIGHT slants through sky-high windows, by day, th. Tapestry Gallery of the Art Museum is sufficiently impressive. Of an evening when electroliers shed luminosity over priceless Gobelins and light up the superb Bayeux tapestry the scene is quite superb. Vastly impressive was the stately apartment last evening when potentates of the Museum were "at home" in honor of the New Wing's opening.

EVEN THE ABSENCE OF T. Jefferson Coolidge and Mrs. Coolidge, as they voyage around the world, detracted nothing from the evening's ceremonial magnificence. Edward Jackson Holmes and Mrs. Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. William Crowninshield Endicott, George Peabody Gardner and Mrs. Gardner, were there to do the honors with grace and suavity. And of the trustees, the honor role included Holker Abbott, Dudley Leavitt Pickman, Augustus Hemenway, Henry Forbes Bigelow, A. Lawrence Lowell, Edwin Sibley Webster, J. Templeman Coolidge and others of that ilk who imbued the evening with significance.

TO LUNCH, TO "MODEL," to tea, to dinner and so to dance—thus moved the debutante through the hours of yesterday. All a-thrill was she over a schedule that meant continuous "going on" and getting into and out of one frock after another. The luncheon for Miss Alison Towle started the program. Then a dash to the Copley-Plaza, to wear some attractive frocks in the interest of beauty and sweet charity. Mrs. Parker Marean's tea for Miss Gertrude Marean hardly had taken its flower scented way to finis before the Julian Coolidge dance for Miss Elizabeth Coolidge arrived with the passing hours to claim Young Set attention.

THE DEBUTANTE WHO cannot adapt herself to the Fashion Show's quick change rhythm does not exist. Yesterday a choice collection of buds donned and doffed a choice collection of frocks, hats, shoes and accessories. Negligees, adorable things in chiffons, laces and supple satins gave way to trig "sports" attire attractively enough fashioned to do a "tea" in. Evening's elaborateness was set off by rose checked buds. Miss Carolyn Read wore a black satin and net tricked out with tiny scarlet bows, as cunning as could be. Miss Barbara Welch's sprightly beauty dominated a demure taffeta.

THE TINSEL "JACKET" gave a harem touch to ruffled net, a gold lace and mint green creation worn by Miss Virginia Taylor. "Isa Mary Vance wore a flounced taffeta, one of the winter's models that so distinctly emphasizes a leaning toward "calico" patterns on silken weaves. Black net and satin for a blonde debutante, especially when the black is picoted out with small bright red discs, is happily chosen, when Miss Adelaide Brown is the bud to wear it. She, by the way, is the bright particular star of next Monday's large dance at the Somerset.

SWATHED IN SATINS AND yards of frothy tulle, a bridesmaid coterie showed what's what and new. No bouquets for them. Nor for the bride, either. Each carried a tiny finger muff and each wore a turban in place of the picture hat bridesmaids these many moons have sworn by. Miss Luisita Leland, Miss Edith Kuntz, Miss Rebecca Benson and Miss Susan Mollar attended the bride with Titian hair. Miss Carol Smith, modish and bridelish in satin and lace. The bud really doesn't need a fashion fete's variety to set her off. She has a delectable wardrobe of her own to flaunt about, which she does with satisfaction to herself and pleasure to the observer.

AIRPLANES TO HAVE RADIO TELEPHONES

Chicago, Nov. 15 (AP)—Radio telephony for airplanes to keep in touch with airports during flight is being installed in the New York-Chicago route for the National Air Transport Company. It was announced today by Lester D. Seymour, assistant general manager of the transport company.

"U. S. Government and N. A. T. engineers have co-operated in perfecting plane-to-ground and ground-to-plane radio telephony," Mr. Seymour said, "enabling pilots to keep in communication with their bases while in flight."

100 FIRE ALARM BOXES TO HAVE NEW NUMBERS

Boston firemen are going to be busy for the next few days learning the new numbers of 100 fire alarm boxes. The new numbers are grouped in order in certain locations.

Fire Commissioner Hultman announced today that the first change goes into effect Saturday in the Charlestown area, around City sq., the navy yard and near the Boston &Maine freight yards. Effective Wednesday is a group that includes another section of Charlestown around Monument sq. A third group goes into effect November 24 and takes in the downtown district.

NOTED PIANIST OPENS SEASON

By MOSES SMITH

"Bigger and Better Boston" hoosiers may take justifiable pride in the opening of the series of morning musicales at Hotel Statler ballroom. Represented in this instance for the most part by fashionable dowagers, the town turned out in good numbers to hear Ossip Gabrilowitsch play a program of piano pieces. And at top prices, if you please. But perhaps they were a spur, rather than a hindrance. Anyway, the Boston School of Occupational Therapy was the grateful beneficiary of the proceedings.

Mr. Gabrilowitsch, a top-ranking pianist who does not play here often, especially since he devotes most of his time to conducting the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, selected a program that avoided, for the most part, heroics. It was a program for a morning musicale, not so much for a fashionable audience. There was only one real "sop" on this program, Chopin's Fantasie-Impromptu.

Beethoven's C-minor sonata, opus 10, and three Schubert Impromptus were beautifully played, with the combination of grace, musicianship and sympathy that have always gone into Gabrilowitsch's interpretation of the classics. The Brahms Rhapsody, opus 119, bolder and more exciting music, found the pianist in equally good fettle.

In the Chopin B major nocturne, Gabrilowitsch displayed another of his familiar aspects—elegance. This piece was played as, we suppose, de Pachmann might have played it, with infinite polish, delicacy, charm. Not so the G minor Ballads, which of course did not call for this kind of treatment. But it was something of a stumbling-block, nevertheless. An unfortunate slip of memory may have been partially responsible. At any rate it was not the Ballads as we like to think of it.

SHIFTING CARGO, INCLUDING AUTOS, CAUSED DISASTER

WATER POURED IN THROUGH AN OPEN DOOR OF S. S. VESTRIS

was a lantern in one boat, but no oil.

In lowering of lifeboats there was a complete lack of seamanship, some of the survivors declared, pointing out that some of the boats were allowed to dangle in mid-air, over the churning ocean, until passengers were spilled out, or the ship had sunk.

That members of the crew failed to assist passengers struggling in the water, also was charged.

There were more members of the crew saved, than were passengers, by at least three to one, so far as it was com I today.

KIN INDIGNANT

As the full extent of the tragedy gripped survivors, who, in the mad panic at sea did not know the actual number lost, there sprung up a wave of indignation as the lists of s r ors showed no children, and few women.

An amazing mind picture of men standing on the top decks of the stricken steamer, hammers and nails in hand; crudely patching up a lifeboat that it might be launched, was painted by some of the survivors.

Among the children who perished, was a New Bedford child, two-year-old George Rua, who went to his death with his father and mother.

The stories of such women ien drifting helplessly in the frenzied seas, clutching loved ones, were but part of the harrowing tales told by the rescued.

Of the women, Mrs. Clara Hall, a middle-aged stewardess on the Vestris, went through the greatest ordeal, so far as the stories ascertained. She remained in the water 22½ hours, clinging with a man to a frail piece of wreckage, until she was finally rescued.

As for Captain Carey, the 55-year-old skipper, he went down with his ship, true to the tradition of the sea, the last man to go over the side.

AGENTS SILENT

With his death, investigators pointed out that they are considerably hampered in their probe, when the man who was a veteran captain could not be present to defend himself against charges made by many of the survivors.

Agents of Sanderson & Company, on whose line the Vestris operated, maintained a silence over the charges hurled against the dead captain.

The agents contented themselves with stating that so far as they had been able to ascertain, from the meagre reports in their possession, Captain Carey was blameless for the disaster; that so far as they know, some automobiles in the cargo got loose and caused the ship to list in a stormy sea.

F. W. Purpo of the Standish Arms Hotel, Brooklyn, and O. S. Stevens of Melrose, who was on his way to Buenos Aires with his bride, who is among the lost, were outspoken in their condemnation of affairs on the Vestris.

Purpo, in a statement, declared the disaster was due to "deliberate criminal procedure."

"I am an engineer employed by the Standard Oil Company, and I am used to overseeing such matters as the loading of cargo," he said. "This wreck was due to deliberate criminal procedure. The ship was doomed and lost Sunday morning, 36 hours before she went down.

"The disaster was caused by deliberately bad loading of the cargo, which shifted a few hours after we left port and couldn't be rearranged.

"All the port holes began to leak and take in water as soon as the ship began leaning over at a slight angle. Everything about the ship was in bad condition."

Stevens said the officers of the ship had not warned the passengers of the danger.

"There was no alarm, no warning to go to the boats," he said.

One of the strangest survivors of the disaster is a dog. The dog was saved by its owner, Mrs. Earl Devore of Los Angeles, whose husband, the famous automobile racing driver, perished in the disaster.

Mrs. Devore declared that she, her husband and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Batten left the Vestris in the same boat, with other passengers. She clung to her dog. The boat went into the raging, tumultuous seas. It went over. Her husband and Batten perished. Both women and the dog were later picked up. Mrs. Devore charged that a lifeboat containing four members of the Vestris crew, and occupied by them alone, refused to pick her husband out of the water.

'They said they must save those swimming around in the sea," she said. "As the men rowed away, I heard my husband shout, 'help, we are sinking.'"

Mrs. Devore, in her loss, was bitter at the men who she charged would not save her husband, even as he was about to sink beneath the waves.

Herman Rueckert, a German passenger also was loud in condemnation of the crew. He was particularly bitter regarding Captain Carey.

BODIES IDENTIFIED

He charged that lifeboats had holes in them and that members of the crew did not endeavor to help the passengers, even women and children. He declared that he personally directed one woman and two children into a lifeboat, only to see them go to their deaths because the lifeboat was leaking.

Then, apparently, feeling that the job would not be well done unless his own boats were put out to make a closer search of the roaring sea, the second officer of the American Shipper went out with a boat's crew. Every man in that boat it was said later, took a chance, for the sea was running record high. The officer and his men rowed around, however, and succeeded in bringing in seven men.

The same tactics were employed by Captain Von Thelen on the Berlin. As fast as the survivors reached the deck of the American and German liners, they were given emergency treatment and furnished with clothing.

While the rescue ships were reaching port, the coast guard in Newport News cruising boiled out victims of the disaster, was en route to New York.

Three of the bodies on the Shaw have been identified as those of Maj. Toshio Inouye, Japanese consul to Guam, New. Miss Engelsberg Franke of Mexico City and Ralph P. Whitehead of Woodstock, N. Y.

A log entry on the Shaw told of an unidentified body buried at sea.

Other bodies unidentified and brought in by the Shaw include:

A woman, Spanish or Italian, about 45 years of age, five feet, four inches in height, weight 160 pounds.

A negress, five feet, two inches in height, weight 160 pounds.

A man in uniform coat, wearing a signet ring bearing the initials J. K., five feet, five inches in height, weight 155 pounds.

A Negro, five feet, six inches, weight 130 pounds.

A man wearing a white uniform coat, six feet, two inches, weight 160 pounds, about 28 years of age.

A man five feet, six inches, weight 140 pounds, about 28 years of age.

A man believed to be an Englishman, six feet, two inches, weight 210 pounds, blue eyes, graying hair.

A woman five feet, four inches, black hair and gray eyes, weight about 140 pounds.

NEW BEDFORD FAMILY HIT

New Bedford, Mass., Nov. 15 (INS)—Word from New York that the body of Jose Gonzoles Rua had been landed from a coastguard cutter and that his wife was aboard the battleship Wyoming was received here today. Their two-year-old son was reported missing.

"Thank God!" Sobs Girl as She Hears Brother Is Saved

London, Nov. 15 (AP)—A girlish voice quivering with emotion called the office of the Evening News on the telephone today and asked:

"Have you a list of people saved from the Vestris?"

A reporter answered affirmatively. "Oh," responded the voice, "would you please look through the list and see if Pat McCulloch is among the survivors."

The girl was informed by the News that McCulloch was one of those picked up by the American Shipper. There was a moment's silence at the other end of the wire and then a burst of wild sobbing. "It is he. He is my brother. Thank God."

There are two McCullochs mentioned as among the crew of the Vestris rescued by the American Shipper. The name of one was given as James and the initial of the second as "M."

2 Escaped Ship Disaster by Remaining Ashore

Pittsburgh, Nov. 15 (AP)—Two men who had booked passage on the steamship Vestris and whose names had appeared in some lists of the missing, today were found to be safe, both having changed their plans before the vessel sailed.

Mr. Rose, export manager of the Fry Equipment Corporation of Rochester, Pa., revised his plans just before the ship left New York and was not aboard when the vessel sank.

Genaro Panzaratta is visiting relatives in New Jersey and so escaped the horrors of the disaster, the First National Bank of Pittsburgh, which booked his passage, reported. Panzaratta had decided to postpone his trip to South America.

Wreck Survivors Going to Hospital in Virginia

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 15 (AP)—Ten patients aboard the battleship Wyoming will be brought to the naval hospital at Portsmouth today when the ship reaches Hampton Roads.

No details were available, but officers at the hospital assumed that many of the patients probably were survivors of the wreck of the Vestris known to be aboard the Wyoming and that the others probably were members of the battleship's crew.

The battleship, which is expected to reach Hampton Roads about 3 o'clock, will be met by an ambulance boat which will take the patients aboard.

Carter E. Fickien, Red Cross field director at Hampton Roads, and Miss Irene Whiten, secretary of Norfolk chapter, with a unit of nurses, will be ready to supply clothing and comfort articles, and telegrams to relatives, and perform other services for the wreck survivors.

Critics of Captain of Vestris Scored by Noble Mariner

New York, Nov. 15 (INS)—Protest against the treatment accorded Capt. William J. Carey of the Vestris, who went down with his ship, was expressed today by Capt. Sir Burton Chadwick, deputy master of the Honorable Company of Master Mariners of London.

"As a seaman I protest most strenuously against the wild and cruel injustice that is being done to the late master of the Vestris," said Sir Burton. "No authentic account of the disaster can be available until an official inquiry is held.

"Until then, in the name of fairness, let reason prevail."

British Board Plans Vestris Wreck Inquiry

London, Nov. 15 (AP)—Board of Trade officials said late today that a searching investigation into the loss of the steamer Vestris was needed. They had not, however, decided the form of the inquiry or where it should be held. Earlier the board had pointed out that such an inquiry was not obligatory.

. . . their health protected by this remarkable energy food

STURDY, robust children don't "just grow," mother! It is a matter of building them up. Developing them slowly with carefully chosen food.

Select food only on the basis of its dietetic worth. And then watch listlessness disappear. Note the steady gain in weight.

White Rose Bread deserves your particular attention. It is a bread rich in calories. Packed with nourishment. And yet widely famous for its flavor.

White Rose produces muscle as well as energy. It is rich in protein . . . calcium . . . phosphates. Just the elements needed if balanced diet is your aim.

It puts solid flesh on growing little bodies . . hardens teeth . . builds strong, sturdy bones and active minds.

It slices easily. Retains its freshness. Delights the most particular by its delicate, delicious flavor.

Every loaf is made from carefully selected ingredients. Highest quality flour. Rich, wholesome milk. Pure cane sugar.

Now, Madam, a word of warning. At times you may be urged to accept some ordinary bread. Think, please, before you do.

Let your grocer distinctly understand that no bread but White Rose will satisfy. Do not trust your family's precious health to ordinary, untried brands. Continental Baking Company.

HERE COMES MABEL DAVIS OF NEW BEDFORD! She holds the speed skating record for the block, thanks to her trusty physique. Mrs. Davis watches Mabel's diet carefully, particularly for "energy" foods. That's why she serves White Rose Bread three times a day.

GET THAT BALL! Looks as if everybody grabbed at the same time. Photo shows Fred DeLancey, Arthur Thomas, Alfred Brittenden, Peter Pointon and Joseph Lawton, all of DORCHESTER. And every one a White Rose enthusiast!

FIREROOM FLOODED LONG BEFORE S O S WAS SENT, SAYS FIREMAN

LOSS OF VESTRIS DUE TO OPEN COAL HOLE, HE DECLARES

New York, Nov. 15 (AP)—Evans Hampden, a negro fireman of the wrecked Vestris landed by the Myriam today, voiced on behalf of the 23 firemen of the party the belief that an S O S should have been broadcast by the Vestris at 8 o'clock Sunday night, when he said the ship was listing at 15 degrees and water in the fireroom was hip deep.

The disaster, Hampden believed, was due almost entirely to a coal hole on the port side, four inches above the water line, which he said was open six inches when the Vestris sailed from Hoboken, and which was so defective it could not be closed.

When Hampden went on duty in the fireroom at 4 o'clock Sunday morning, he said, the chief engineer was warned that water was leaking through the hole into the coal bunkers, but two men were unable to force the door closed with heavy wooden hammers.

When he went off duty at 8 o'clock, he said, the water was ankle deep in the fire room, and when he returned at 4 in the afternoon it had already put out the fires under the starboard boiler and was coming in fast.

WATER HIP DEEP.

Chief Engineer Avard Adams helped man the pumps, but the water entered so fast that a life line was rigged between the coal bunkers and the furnace door to help the firemen keep their feet. Then it became so bad that two men supported the shovelers to keep them from going down into hip deep water or lunging into the open fireboxes.

At last, before he went off duty at 8 Sunday night, a bucket brigade was passing coal from bunkers to furnace doors while bedroom stewards helped bail the boiler room. A heavy lurch of the ship sent the water up to the men's necks.

Up to this time, Hampden said, no S O S had been sent out, although men had made the perilous journey from boiler room to bridge after telephone communications went out to keep Capt. Carey informed of the situation.

CAPTAIN DISAPPEARED.

Thomas R. Edwards, a bedroom steward rescued by the Myriam from a lifeboat, said just before the Vestris sank he saw Capt. Carey and another man on the bridge, their hands clasped.

Together, he said, they walked to the rail. Then the second man plunged into the sea. A big wave hit the Vestris from the lifeboat for a moment. When it subsided the ship was sinking. Captain Carey had disappeared.

Edwards was firmly convinced that shifting of the coal at least intensified the disastrous listing of the Vestris, if it did not cause it.

Harry Fay, a Pittsburgh pugilist who was en route to South America for three bouts, said as soon as he had rested he planned to start again.

Why Vestris Sank

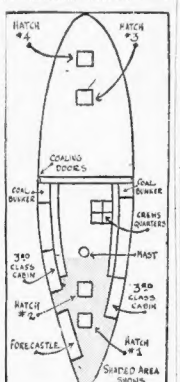

Diagram shows hold of Vestris. Cargo forward, shown in shaded area, including very heavy machinery, automobiles, etc., broke through wooden bulkhead into the forecastle, causing the ship to list heavily to starboard. Coaling doors on this side, usually watertight, were washed by the heavy sea. Water gushed through these doors, filling alleyways and logging the coal. The increased weight of the coal caused the ship to list even more until she went over.

Sent Good News

Arthur Jensen, radio man on the American Shipper, who flashed to the world the glad news of the Vestris rescues.

MANY DIE WHEN LIFEBOAT IS CUT FREE

New York, Nov. 15 (INS)—A passenger who managed to get a lifeboat hanging from the side of the Vestris into the water more quickly cut the boat davit ropes. The boat dropped nose first and flung 30 or more persons, mostly women, into a debris-filled sea.

William Cadogan of New York City, today told the story of his part in the fatal confusion that marked the abandonment of the Vestris. Cadogan was one of eight passengers arriving today on the French tanker Myriam. He is a former employe of the Lamport and Holt Line which operated the Vestris.

"I was in one of the first three lifeboats to be swung over the side of the Vestris," Cadogan told. "There were about 30 people in the boat.

"There were 14 boats to take 325 people, and when we saw our boat was filled we called to Capt. Carey to lower us. He was standing on the deck. The captain turned away, refusing to give the order to lower our boat, and directed his attention to the loading of another boat.

"Meanwhile, as we hung suspended over the water, the list of the ship was increasing so that it looked as if our boat would not clear the side.

"I whipped out a razor and cut the ropes from the davits that held the lifeboat at the bow. The ropes at the stern held and the boat dropped forward, spilling the people out. They fell into the sea.

"Later I got into another lifeboat and we were saved by the Mariana after drifting around in the water for several hours."

Cadogan explained how he "pushed his action. He said he did so was shooting the situation.

"By cutting the ropes," Cadogan said, 'I thought I would lower the boat into the water before it struck the side of the ship and was smashed.

"As it hung in the davit by the tail rope a big wave lifted the lifeboat and smashed it against the side of the Vestris.

Save Dog and Cat as Liner Vestris Sinks Into Sea

New York, Nov. 15 (AP)—A cat and a dog were among the survivors in the wreck of the Vestris.

A white fox terrier was rescued Tuesday morning by the American Shipper after it had spent the night in an open boat in the arms of its owner, Mrs. Earl Devore.

The cat, a striped tiger tomcat, was regarded as a mascot by the ship's crew and was saved by its owner, Alfred Dindy, assistant steward, who carried it all night in his arms until picked up by the American Shipper.

Russian Admiral Dead

Helsingfors, Finland, Nov. 15 (AP)—Admiral Oscar Stackel, who commanded the Russian navy in the war of Port Arthur against the Japanese attack in 1904, died today at the age of 76 years old.

Sage Tea Turns Gray Hair Dark

By SHIRLEY BLAKE

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your crown. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture. You can get this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, for only 75 cents, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth Sage and Sulphur Compound" now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time, by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

The Old Bills were worst

That was about the story of Conway's life. He never could quite pay the old bills, let alone the new! . . . And somehow Conway couldn't push ahead with his job, either. Life worried, irritated, baffled him—almost beyond bearing!

Conway knew that clogged up intestines ruined dispositions and undermined health—knew that that constant feeling of stuffiness made life hard for him. Yet he'd tried ordinary laxatives; slow-acting health foods, harsh cathartics . . .

Feen-a-mint is different!

It's just like a bit of delicious mint-flavored chewing gum. You don't swallow it hastily, like other laxatives—you chew it!

The chewing releases Feen-a-mint's wonderful cleansing principle so gradually, so naturally that it acts with unbelievable gentleness—yet sweeps out the clogging poisons from your whole system. In 3 to 4 hours (or by morning, if you take it at bedtime) it freshens you from top to toe!

It won't torture you with griping pains. It won't disturb digestion. It won't enslave you to laxative pills. Get Feen-a-mint at your druggist's today.

MODEL 52 A. C. Combining electric receiver and speaker in compact cabinet. FULL-VISION Dial. For 110-120 volt, 50-60 cycle alternating current. Uses 6 A. C. tubes and 1 rectifying tube, with automatic line voltage control. Without tubes, $117.

THE OTHER DAY wavelengths were shifted, all around the dial. Your favorite stations weren't in their usual places at all.

Disconcerting? Not for those who have Atwater Kent Radio, with the FULL-VISION Dial. They're finding it a great little friend in this emergency.

"FULL-VISION" means that the whole dial is visible at once. No part of it is concealed. You see all the figures at a glance, and every figure is large and plain. And what your fingers turn is the dial itself—not a secondary knob working in low gear.

So, as you turn, the programs snap in one after another. A half turn brings in all the stations within a wide range. You can catch them on the wing, so to speak, and log them according to their new positions as fast as you can move your pencil.

And remember that with the Atwater Kent FULL-VISION Dial no auxiliary adjustments are necessary. The only other controls you ever touch are the switch that turns the current on and off, and the volume control.

What an advantage to Atwater Kent owners! What a vindication of the foresight that saw long ago the broadcasting stations might be shifted about and that gave Atwater Kent Radio the FULL-VISION Dial.

You'll find the Atwater Kent 1929 all-electric set like that all the way through—simple, sound, quick, modern in every way—easy to operate, easy to listen to.

And how easy to buy! Compare prices—then see what you get in an Atwater Kent with the FULL-VISION Dial—for $77.

LEADERS ROW OVER NEXT HEAD OF 'SALLIES'

London, Nov. 15 (AP)—General William Bramwell Booth, head of the Salvation Army, who is making a determined fight against acute neuritis, passed a fair night, it was announced today. There was little change in his conditions this morning.

Salvation Army headquarters stated today that an important announcement regarding the constitutional aspect of the succession to leadership in the Salvation Army may be made soon.

It is expected that he statement will deal with the position of Evangeline Booth, who is reported to be scheduled to sail from New York on Saturday, as well as other members of the Booth family.

Meanwhile the veteran general seems to be gaining a little in his struggle for life in his quiet seaside cottage.

Some of the London newspapers are making a big feature of the "acute heartburnings" in the higher ranks of the army respecting the succession to leadership, nothwithstanding a statement by Commissioner Higgins on Monday severely criticizing discussion of a possible successor to General Booth while the general was making a gallant fight for his life.

Rumors that the stricken leader had designated either his wife or his daughter Catherine as his successor persist in such strength that several leading commissioners are said to be attempting to secure a meeting of the high council of the army to discuss the question.

They are even said to be prepared to invoke the law to prevent the appointment of a woman on the contention that she would be unable to bear the responsibility of control of the army and especially of the vast property it holds in trust, computed at approximately £20,000,000.

Relief from Gas Stomach Pains Dizziness

The doctors tell us that 90 per cent of all sickness is due to stomach and bowel troubles. You can't be well if your digestion is bad; you are likely to get sick unless you relish food and digest it properly.

Tanlac has a wonderful record as a relief from digestive troubles, even those of years' standing.

Mr. Alexis Caya, 546 Hunt St., Woonsocket, R. I., says: "I was in such bad health I couldn't work for a year. I decided to try Tanlac. Now I've gained 30 lbs., my yellow skin has cleared, constipation overcome and appetite returned."

If you suffer from gas, pains in the stomach or bowels, dizziness, nausea, constipation or torpid liver; if you have no appetite, can't sleep and are nervous and all run down, you need Tanlac. It is good, pure medicine, made of roots, herbs and barks. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Money back if it doesn't help you.

CONCERT HALL ATMOSPHERE ELUDES RADIO

By FRED TOYE
Radio Editor

SCHOOL CHILDREN throughout the land will sit silent and listen to Walter Damrosch and his symphony orchestra in his third educational broadcast tomorrow morning. The youth of America will look at blank walls and listen. Possibly they will enjoy it. Undoubtedly they will learn something about music from Dr. Damrosch's comments. But if they imagine that they are attending a real symphony concert, they are sadly mistaken. Not that the musical numbers will not be executed in fine artistic style, and not that the job is not in the most capable of hands. But a real symphony concert has many features which radio has not found it possible to incorporate in its output to date.

SETTLE PROBLEMS

WHAT RADIO STATION is going to be the first to put concert-hall atmosphere in a symphony broadcast? What symphony is a symphony without that sibilant and persistent dialog between two female cronies just back of you? Every concertgoer is familiar with those inveterate music lovers who settle all their conversational problems during the Friday afternoon subscription series. Their voices start "moderato," rise "crescendo" with the musical theme, mount to "fortissimo" at the finale and startle the assemblage with a formidable roar when the music comes to an unexpected stop.

COUGHING BARRAGE

THEN THERE'S the deaf old man whose nose-blowing performance sounds like a backfire in the midst of a pianissimo passage for muted strings. What symphony concert is complete where there is no rustle of 3000 program pages when the music and Mr. Philip Hale's analytical notes reach the bottom? How are the school children of the land to know the joy of a real symphony unless the radio people supply these essential incidentals and more? What about the persistent subscriber who always manages to push the entrance door open by main force against the usher just when the music starts, and whose seat is always half way between the aisles? How about the nice lady who tries to choke off a cough and nearly strangles for a subsequent half hour, sending off three-quarters of the audience into a sympathetic barrage of acute phthysis at the moment when Siegfried cocks his ear to the songs of the birds?

GARLIC PIZZICATO

WHAT RADIO CONCERT will give us adequate representation of the swarthy devotee who palpitates garlic fumes "pizzicato" to the measure of the wood-wind choir, and whose expansive hands shatter your eardrums in pistol-shot applause? Will these radio symphonies give the children the delightful sensation which comes from having an overcoat scrape the back of your head against the grain, or feeling the iron edge of an upholstered seat mash your toes in sudden descent? I think not.

ONE KILLED, SIX HURT IN IOWA TORNADOES

Vinton, Ia., Nov. 15 (AP)—Tornadoes dropped out of black skies in three separate localities of northeastern Iowa, causing at least one death, injuries to six and property damage that will run into many thousands of dollars.

Two twisters struck, one sweeping down about five miles south of Vinton, in Benton county, cutting a path 40 rods wide and for 11 miles, then bounding, to drop on the farming community called Silver Creek, 20 miles northeast. The other tornado, at about thes ame hour, struck at Chester, 90 miles northwest of Silver Creek.

VESUVIUS MORE ACTIVE AS MT. ETNA SUBSIDES

Naples, Nov. 15 (AP)—As the outpouring of molten lava from Mt. Etna continued to diminish today, Mt. Vesuvius became active.

Incandescent matter was being thrown out from a small orifice at the base of the central cone from which it spouted last August. The activity was on the northwest side almost under the station of the cable railway running toward the summit.

Lava was pouring from the fissures of the main crater, which sent out tongues of flame into the valley of the Inferno last August.

STUNT AVIATOR IS SIGNED FOR FILM SERIES

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS.
Copyright, 1928, by Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 15—Is the world growing less sentimental? Most writers contend that the modern age is tired of over-sentimentality. Yet the average film contains a large percentage of love interest. Pathe is about to experiment with a film called "Square Shoulders," a father and son story in which Louis Wolheim and Junior Coghlan play the leads.

I say experiment because there is no love interest other than the great affection of the father, a crook, for his son, who knows nothing of his father's profession. The original story by Sanford Hewitt and George Dromohold sounds in the telling a little like "Sorrel and Son," although the boy remains a child and does not marry.

E. Mason Hopper, who has been sojourning in Europe for some months, will direct, and Paul Bern will supervise. It's Wolheim's first talkie and his chief support seems to be children, for in addition to that fascinating youngster, Junior Coghlan, there is Phillippe De Lacy and Anita Louise, a small girl.

SOMEONE recently called to my attention the fact that Dorothy Sebastian is one of the prettiest girls in the films. That remark was followed by a complimentary report on her work as Venice in "A Woman of Affairs." Clarence Brown, to whom she is engaged, directed her and naturally gave her the chance she needed.

Apparently Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer are convinced of her ability for now she is to play opposite Buster Keaton in "Spite Marriage," probably Buster's most pretentious film and we are told the girl's part is above the ordinary so everybody should be happy.

DICK GRACE, a stunt flier and more recently known as the fiance of Alice White, is to star in a series of two-reelers, which are to be made by the company responsible for the film in which Marie Prevost and Ben Lyon starred—"The Mormon Tale," produced in Salt Lake City.

* * *

TOMORROW morning Senorita Dolores Del Rio, Mexican favorite and star in Edwin Carew's production, returns to Hollywood after spending three months traveling in Europe and visiting twelve countries. After a brief rest and a few days spent greeting her friends Miss Del Rio will begin to study "Evangeline," her next picture.

If there is more than sound synchronization she will not be entirely out of luck for "Evangeline" was French and so was Gabriel, and Miss Del Rio speaks French. Roland Drew may have to acquire a little accent if "Evangeline" is a talkie.

I believe Carewe's original intention was to confine sound only to musical accompaniment and incidental synchronization. But with the craze for talkies so prevalent this plan may be changed.

"WHAT artists," I have been asked, "could possibly speak three languages?" You'd be surprised. There are plenty of linguists among our Hollywood citizens. Ann Codee and Frank Orth, vaudeville artists, are the ones who made the talkie for Warner Brothers in three languages. That is some stunt, to be able to speak fluently enough to act a part in German, French and English. We are accustomed to it on the operatic stage but we seldom get it on the speaking stage.

THINGS are indeed looking up for Lawrence Grey, who yesterday was only one of a dozen young juvenile actors suitable for a leading man role opposite any one of our feminine stars. Today his singing voice takes him out of that category and gives him a distinct advantage over other youths in the films.

Winfield Sheehan, who can be said to usually have his weather eye on any worthy prospects, has therefore not only signed Grey for the male lead in "White Silence," a Fox talkie, but he is giving him a chance in the Fox Follies.

YOUNG CARL LAEMMLE is losing his smile these days trying to choose a cast that will do credit to "Broadway," Universal's film piece de resistance for this coming season. So far the girl is still undiscovered, unless Barbara Kent wins out.

Count Andre de Segurola will, in all likelihood, play the part of the night club owner. The count not only has a fine singing voice, acquired during his many years as a Metropolitan operatic favorite, but he speaks lines well. He is one actor whose foreign accent is valuable largely because his characterization usually calls for a foreign diplomat, an opera star or something of the sort.

SNAPSHOTS of Hollywood collected at random: Walter Pidgeon singing several classical musical numbers to several jazz-loving friends. Anita Stewart rushing to the veterinary with her pet dog. James Gleason stepping into the male lead of "The Shanfon's of Broadway" on a moment's notice. Edmund Love buying one of the popular rolamonicas now in use in the best regulated film families.

Harry Crocker and Virginia Valli with a group of other film folk riding horseback. Marion Davies taking a singing lesson. Count De Segurola wearing a yellow rose to match a cravat and waistcoat of the same color. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Fumes From Barn Still Made Cow Drunk, Claim Dry Agents

Middleton, Nov. 15—Jersey cows are known to have pretty big heads, but there's one in this town today that has a still larger one. That is what prohibition agents insist is the condition of a bossie here, who they claim got real drunk from moonshine fumes rising from beneath her stall in a barn on the Klowski farm.

When the agents released the cow from her stall to raid the place, she turned the raid into a rodeo, galloped around the yard in wild leaps and then dashed down the road a half mile before being captured. A big still with mash and moonshine were found beneath her stall.

BOY AND $80 OF HIS UNCLE'S CASH VANISH

Paulino Riccardi, 16, and a roll of $80 disappeared simultaneously, it was reported today to Revere police by his uncle, Michael Fabiano of Mountain ave., with whom the boy lives. The uncle said the money was his and had been kept in a bureau drawer.

Police of teh Hanover st. station and of Lynn were notified of the boy's disappearance. He his friends in the North End and in Lynn, the uncle said.

INSURANCE HEAD REPORTED BETTER

Springfield, Nov. 15—The condition of William W. McClench, for 20 years president of the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company, who is critically ill with a heart attack, showed a slight improvement and he is said to have a chance for recovery.

Mr. McClench retired from the presidency of the company last January and was elected chairman of the board of directors, in which office he has retained active supervision of the company's affairs. He is 74 years old.

Health and HOT WATER

FOR successful living—health.

For health—clean bodies, clean clothes, clean food, clean homes.

Doctors advise frequent hot baths—washing the hands before every meal, before touching the baby or handling food, scalding dishes, scouring everything about the kitchen, sterilizing the razor, wearing clean clothes. All are tested ways to health. And all require hot water. At least one-third of the water you use in your home should be hot.

Gas is necessary if you would have a quick, constant, dependable supply—day or night.

Call on your gas company for demonstrations of water heating, cooking, house heating, refrigeration, incineration and many other uses for GAS—THE BETTER FUEL.

Appliances that you desire may be purchased with a small down payment and convenient terms for the balance.

Hot water instantly with Gas ...THE BETTER FUEL

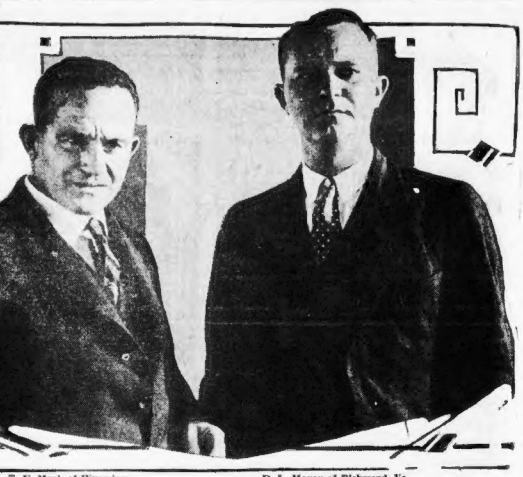
HUNDREDS WAITING TO WELCOME VESTRIS SURVIVORS

Scene outside the pier of the American Merchant Line to greet the fortunate unfortunates who were picked up by the American Shipper near the spot where the Vestris went down.

Two Wreck Survivors



T. E. Mack of Wyoming

D. L. Maxey of Richmond, Va.

RESCUED BY NORTH GERMAN LLOYD LINER

Two passengers of Vestris who arrived in New York aboard the S. S. Berlin. They were among the first to be picked up after the rescue ships reached the scene of the disaster.

RESCUED WIFE AND HUSBAND MEET AT PIER

New York, Nov. 15 (AP)—A pretty, auburn haired woman, who last saw her husband floundering in the sea as the steamer Vestris sank found ship waiting at the pier when she landed early today with 56 other survivors from the Prince tanker Myrtus. She was the only woman survivor aboard the tanker.

The woman, Mrs. Cline Slaughter, had learned of her husband's rescue by wireless. He recognized her despite the borrowed seaman's clothing and rushed over and embraced her. The husband was landed yesterday from the rescue ship American Shipper.

Mrs. Slaughter, who is 21 years old, said she was the last woman to leave the stricken Vestris. When she quit the liner she was wearing a new gown. This, she said, had not been transformed into a French creation by shrinkage.

The borrowed clothing in which she descended to the pier included a pair of trousers and a white woolen undershirt given her by Capt. Hernan Feray of the Myrtus, and a hat loaned by another person on board the ship.

Her husband gave up his place in the lifeboat assigned to them to make room for two other women, Mrs. Slaughter said, and the boat was lowered with difficulty only after some tangled lines were cut away from the davits with axes. It was launched just before the Vestris went down.

Mrs. Slaughter said she fell out of the boat and was pulled under the water by the suction from the liner as it took its final plunge.

"It seemed as though I was under a long time," she said, "and when I finally bobbed up I saw my husband swimming a few yards away. Both of us were nearly exhausted."

Near them approached another lifeboat, in which was Second Officer Leslie Watson of the Vestris. When he saw them she said he was jumped into the sea and swam towards her, but the lifeboat kept pulling away.

It was probably twenty minutes before Watson reached her side, Mrs. Slaughter said. He had supported her in the water for perhaps an hour, when he hailed a passing lifeboat and helped her into it.

Charges of negligence on the part of the master of the Vestris, voiced by other passengers, found no confirmation from Mrs. Slaughter.

"So far as I know," she said, "there was no such thing as criminal negligence. The captain did his duty and did his best."

She added that she did not know whether it would have been best to send out the S O S earlier than it was broadcast.

GROUP OF STRANGELY CLAD SURVIVORS OF VESTRIS ENTERING HARBOR

From deck of the American Shipper cries of joy and relief went up from those torn from the grasp of the sea and brought safely to land once more. Garbed in clothing loaned by sailors, as they lost theirs in the disaster, they presented a queer appearance, full of excitement as they glimpsed New York's shores.

17 PERISH WHEN A LIFEBOAT IS OVERTURNED

London, Nov. 15 (AP)—The Press Association today publishes a graphic account of the drowning of all 15 members of the crew of a lifeboat sent out by the Rye, Sussex, station in a tempestuous sea at Jury's Gap when the boat overturned while attempting to assist a small steamer in distress, today.

An eyewitness who watched the lifeboat depart was quoted as giving the following description of the tragedy which took place within the sight of relatives when the crew was returning to the harbor after all on the wrecked steamer had been rescued by the German steamship Smyrna.

"It was at 7:30 o'clock this morning that a group of people, including many women who had been anxiously waiting, saw the lifeboat returning to the harbor. The seas were mountainous and they were coming in the teeth of a southwesterly gale. Every fresh wave threatened to overturn the boat, and many of the waiting relatives began to pray aloud in terror.

"When the lifeboat was within a half-mile of the harbor, at the end of the crew's struggle against odds, there came a gigantic wave that overwhelmed and capsized the little craft and the crew was drowned within sight of the screaming and sobbing men and women waiting at the harbor side. They could see the men struggling in the angry waves and yet were powerless to do anything.

It was some hours later before bodies began to float ashore at Jury's Gap, a desolate spot on the sands several miles from Rye.

ASK NATIONAL SURVEY TO SAVE COAL INDUSTRY

Cleveland, Nov. 15 (AP)—Recommendation of a national bituminous coal research committee was made today by F. W. Shibley, vice-president of teh Bankers' Trust Company, New York, in an address before the annual convention of teh National Coal Association here.

"There is no industry in this country in a more deplorable condition at the present time than the coal industry," Shibley said. "Aggressive leadership is demanded to save the industry and an educational program among the men in teh business will stop the impending danger, I believe."

13 Is Lucky Number in Tragedy of the Seas

By the Associated Press.

Sharks which infested the warm waters of the Gulf Stream were an added menace to victims of the Vestris disaster. Several survivors told of seeing one of the huge fish tear human bodies.

• • •

Paul A. Dana, representative of the Radio Corporation of America in South America, and Mrs. Clara Ball, a stewardess on the Vestris, were called "the luckiest pair" he had ever seen by Capt. Schuyler Cummings of the American Shipper, who rescued them. They floated in the water for 22 hours.

• • •

"I haven't even a cold," was the boast of Carl Schmidt, who spent 20 hours in the water before he was picked up by the liner Berlin. He said he went "batty" when he saw women and children drowning all around him. "I felt my heart grow colder than the water all about me," he said. "Then at last there came a hail from the Berlin's bridge.

"I felt warm again." Wounds on his back made by the life preserver chafing him he called "welcome wounds."

The tackle on lifeboat No. 13, some of the passengers said, was jammed. The ship was already in her death birth. A big wave caught the boat, tore it loose from the tackle, carried it clear of the sinking ship. Lucky 13.

• • •

Each surviving passenger of the Vestris was given $20 by Lamport & Holt officials on landing in New York. The money was for hotel expenses.

• • •

Capt. Schuyler J. Cummings, 37-year-old captain of the American Shipper is a modest hero. Worn by his many hours of rescuing survivors from the sea he said: "I've done my job. Let me alone.' He then went into his stateroom, locked the door, and dictated a terse statement retiling the American Shipper's part in the work.

• • •

"It might have been worse," said several passengers of the Vestris, in remembering their ship sank in the Gulf Stream, which is several degrees warmer than other parts of the North Atlantic. The water was much to be preferred to the air, they said.

Several of them hung over the side of the lifeboats to escape the cold rain and winds.

The steamship Montoso, arriving in Boston yesterday, heard for the first time of the wreck of the Vestris, although she was but 25 miles away when the ship first encountered serious trouble. The Montoso carried no wireless.

Capt. Sir Burton Chadwick, deputy master of the Honorable Company of Master Mariners of London, England, of which the Prince of Wales is master, has protested against the "wild and cruel injustice" that he thinks is being done to Capt. Carey. He said judgment on the captain's actions should be withheld until an official inquiry.

• • •

Not one of the passengers aboard the American Shipper slept Monday night while the ship was cruising about the wreck area in search of victims, said Mrs. Esther Hasson of Washington, who was returning from London aboard the rescue ship. She said the passengers shared the nervous strain with the officers and crew.

Chief Officer Eric Nelson of the American Shipper regards Mrs. Clara Ball, stewardess of the Vestris, who floated in the water for 22 hours, as one of the pluckiest women who ever went to sea. She insisted the ship should pick up the men first.

Vestris is the name of a theatrical family well known in the 18th and 19th centuries in Italy, France and England. Gaetano Appolino Baldassare Vestris, the first of the family to acquire fame, was born in Florence in 1729 and gained great success on the French stage. He died in 1808.

FALL IS COMING BACK TO BOSTON

Tomorrow it will continue to be a little chillier. There are no storms in sight.

BODIES OF EIGHT SEA VICTIMS REACH PORT

New York, Nov. 15 (INS)—The bodies of four men, victims of the sinking of the Vestris, were removed today from the deck of the U. S. Coast Guard cutter Acushnet when it docked at Staten Island. The cutter had picked up the four bodies after searching through the wreckage, littered sea in the vicinity of the sinking of the Vestris.

A few hours earlier the cutter Tucker had arrived with the bodies of four additional victims, three men and one woman. The cutters were met by Medical Examiner George F. Mord. He immediately ordered the bodies taken to the morgue.

Two of the bodies aboard the Tucker were identified by papers in the pockets of the clothes of the victims. One was Jose Gonzolo Ron of New Bedford, Mass., and the other was Ramon Garcia Belao of New York.

In Belao's pockets also was found $250 in cash and $7,350 in cashier's checks. The body of the woman, a negress, was unidentified as was the body of the third man, apparently one of the crew.

Comdr. Sexton of the Tucker said all four victims had been found floating in the water together. Their heads were supported above water by the life belts they wore. Comdr. Sexton believed exposure and fright rather than drowning had caused their deaths.

Two of the bodies aboard the Acushnet had been identified as Thomas Jones, about 30 years old, bar man aboard the Vestris, address unknown, and Paul Whitehead, 27, a civil engineer, of Kingston, N. Y.

Of the others, one was that of an elderly man, with very little hair and that gray. He weighed 150 pounds and was five feet eight inches tall. He was dressed only in underclothes.

The fourth body was that of a negro, apparently a member of the Vestris crew.

There was a lifebelt around the waist of each body.

The bodies of 13 additional victims found last night at the scene of the disaster by the Coast Guard cutter Manning are due to reach here today.

DISTRESS FLAG STILL FLIES ON SCHOONER

New York, Nov. 15 (AP)—The Radio Marine Corporation today picked up a message from the coast guard vessel Yamacraw, saying that the schooner Anna R. Heldritter, first reported in distress Tuesday night, was still flying distress signals today.

Head COLDS Checked this Modern Way

HEAD colds are not so dangerous in themselves. But, if neglected, they mean increased discomfort, and often lead to serious trouble.

At the first sneeze, place some Vicks up each nostril and snuff well back. Also melt some in a bowl of hot water and inhale its healing vapors. This quickly opens the air-passages.

To get the benefit of the healing vapors all night, rub Vicks on the throat and chest at bedtime. It is the warmth of the body that releases the vapors. At the same time, Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice.

Saved 23 From Vestris — Chicago Woman Rescued — Brings in Survivors

CAPT. H. VON THULEN
Commander of North German Lloyd liner Berlin, which landed 23 survivors of the Vestris in New York.

PICKED UP ON STORM-TOSSED SEA
Mrs. Cline Slaughter, prominent woman of Chicago, as she appeared on tug coming into New York, after being transferred from the steamer Myriam, which saved her from the Vestris wreck. She is shown here wearing the trousers given her in lieu of other clothing.

HEEDED S O S CALL
Capt. W. C. Renaut of the Santa Barbara, one of the first to answer the Vestris' distress signal, on the bridge of his ship.

BOXER TELLS OF FIGHTING FOR LIFE STAKES

New York, Nov. 15 (INS)—[illegible] a battle for higher stakes than [illegible] ever held. [illegible] boxer, [illegible] passengers [illegible] Myriam.

It was all "just another experience" to Fay, who grinned broadly and waved his hat while photographers' flashlights flared.

[illegible] experience [illegible] series of them.

ALL A JUMBLE

"From the time we were lowered away from the sinking ship until we were picked up three hours later by the tanker, everything is a jumble in my mind.

All I know is that I was saved. How I don't think I will ever know.

"The lifeboat I was in tipped up on end as it was being lowered and spilled me and more than a score of others into the sea.

"As I [illegible] I jumped into another [illegible] but [illegible] so [illegible] that it was being abandoned.

IN THREE BOATS

"I jumped to a third boat. I just jumped into three boats, one after another, and was saved. I don't even remember whether I was in the water in between.

"There was wreckage and debris all around us. Boxes and crates, pieces of wood and canvas. In some places the litter was so thick on the water that the lifeboats could hardly get through."

Fay was on his way to South America to arrange for a bout with [illegible] the Bull of the Pampas. He said the fight plans are now a little up in the air. He will return to Pittsburgh in a few days, he said.

WATCH STILL RUNNING

Fay exhibited a wrist watch which was still running and bore the correct time.

"Here's a watch I wouldn't take $1000 for. It was on my wrist all the time and is still going. It's all I have, too. We weren't able to save anything.

"I came up onto one of the lower decks with my shoes [illegible] after I heard people shouting. That was [illegible] before noon Monday morning. I was dressed and had a cap in [illegible], but no overcoat.

Officers told me there was no danger at all and to go to the top deck. When I got up there I saw the terrible list the ship had and I knew there was danger.

MORE FORTUNATE

"I was in the second of the two boats picked up by the Myriam. We were saved about 5 o'clock Monday afternoon. The others had been [illegible] about 3.30. We were a good deal more fortunate than those in some of the other boats.

Fay said he saw no incidents either of heroism or cowardice on the part of the other passengers or crew. He was surprised when told of the charges of negligence made by rescued passengers arriving yesterday against officers and seamen of the Vestris.

"We were among the first to get away from the ship after the [illegible] boats had been [illegible]," [illegible] "And I don't know [illegible] anything like that."

flood. It was through this incom[illegible] that a storm-tossed [illegible] poured [illegible] of modern times.

The water mounted steadily in the engine room all last Sunday, according to members of the black gang, and when it was almost up to their necks they asked that an S O S be sent out.

WANTED S O S CALL.

"All day Sunday we urged an officer to tell the captain to send out an S O S, but we were told the captain could not be moved," declared Evans Hampden, [illegible].

The S O S from the Vestris was not sent out until Monday [illegible]. Their warning unheeded, the engineers stuck to their [illegible]. It was [illegible] hours before the S O S was sent out to the world. The starboard [illegible] was [illegible] to be [illegible] for men to swim [illegible] the sloping floor. Two trimmers and the man with the shovel as he attempted to get at the coal.

Hampden said that they were ordered to keep at least one boiler going so that there would be power enough [illegible] when the captain decided to send out the S O S.

WATER POURING IN

It was 4 a. m. Sunday morning when the [illegible] engine room staff reported water coming in threateningly through the open port, Hampden said. A squad of men attacked [illegible] but could not close it, he said.

Then the boatswain's mate had [illegible] and [illegible] the opening in an attempt to stem the [illegible]. Before Sunday noon the list [illegible] was 15 degrees, Hampden said.

Thomas [illegible], white first steward, said the desperate [illegible] [illegible] stewards, [illegible] were sent below to work the engine room pumps, he said.

2 DESTROYERS KEEP UP HUNT

Washington, Nov. 15 (AP)—Of the fleet of commercial and government vessels which [illegible] to the assistance of the [illegible] Vestris only two remained today at the scene of the disaster. These were the Coast Guard destroyers Mannin and Modoc, both now under orders to continue the search for survivors or bodies.

The Coast Guard vessel Tucker, with seven bodies on board today, was bound for New York. The battleship Wyoming received [illegible] to [illegible] Hampton Roads [illegible].

At nightfall the Coast Guard destroyer [illegible] search for New York [illegible] badly battered [illegible] board were [illegible].

Held in Paint Brush Theft

[illegible] with breaking and entering and larceny of paint brushes, Richard L. Power of Faxon st., Roxbury, was held for the Grand Jury today in Roxbury court by Judge [illegible] who found probable cause.

FEDERAL PROBE OF SINKING RUSHED

The Lamport & Holt steamship Vestris [illegible] of British registry and [illegible] British [illegible] British Board [illegible].

[illegible] federal inquiry is seeking to [illegible]:

1—Why wasn't the SOS sent out sooner from the Vestris?
2—Did the company fail, as alleged by survivors, to provide adequate safety equipment?
3—Was Capt. William Carey, the commander who went down with his ill-fated ship, guilty of inefficiency and vacillation in the face of danger?
4—Were the officers of the Vestris guilty of callous indifference?
5—Did the crew, as a whole, look out for itself at the expense of the passengers?
6—Were the lifeboats in bad condition?
7—Did the Vestris leave its port in New York listing somewhat and not in the best of condition for a sea voyage?

United States [illegible] Tuttle [illegible] to fix the responsibility and [illegible] the facts. It was not long [illegible] assistants, [illegible] wonder if some of the stories [illegible] of the crew were sustained.

MAY FACE JAIL TERMS.

[illegible]

"What about these charges?" reporters asked David Cook, vice president.

"The officers will answer them at the inquiry this afternoon," he replied.

[illegible]

"Why wasn't the S O S sent [illegible]?"

[illegible]

"Was the ship unfit to be put to sea?"

"It was inspected three days before it went out."

Cook said the Vestris was [illegible] when it left port. [illegible]

[illegible] "unbiased and exhaustive."

STILL HOPES SON'S BRIDE IS SAFE IN SEA TRAGEDY

Charles Stevens, Sr., father of O. S. Stevens of the First National Bank, was overjoyed to learn that his son was safe in New York [illegible] learned [illegible] that there is possibility that his son's bride might be living, as she was seen to leave the side of the ship in a boat.

It is believed possible by the steamship company that she may have been taken on board a small craft not equipped with wireless.

Orrin Stevens Suffers From Nerve Shock

ORRIN S. STEVENS, [illegible] representative of a Hub banking concern in Buenos Aires and a survivor of the Vestris, [illegible] from a nervous shock that may [illegible] days.

FEARED FOR HER LIFE

Mrs. Sarah E de Almeida, wife of Pedro de Almeida, Spanish consul at Boston, is suing for divorce. Grilled by husband's lawyer, she testified that he had an "insane temper." Resorting frequently to smelling salts she told of his flourishing a revolver, though later she admitted it was not loaded. She denied he had grounds for suspicions that she was unfaithful. Notes she had made of a letter to a B. U. professor were read.

Sour Stomach Sign of Carelessness

POLITE society frowns on those whose stomachs "grumble." For careful people heed this warning that the contents of the stomach is sour and fermenting. Those who don't, may some day develop gastritis—or even ulcers.

Nine times out of ten indigestion and allied stomach disorders are due to excess stomach acid, which impedes normal digestion and forms sour gases that cause intense pain. To restore good digestion you must eliminate this cause. A tablet of "Pape's Diapepsin" after eating or when pain is felt will instantly neutralize the acidity and banish all digestive trouble and pain.

So, do buy a 60-cent package of "Pape's Diapepsin" today. This not only means instant relief, but by soothing, healing and strengthening your weak and disordered stomach a little "Pape's Diapepsin" keeps your digestive system healthy and helps to prevent various disorders.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

FRENCH LINE HAS PINCH-HITTER

Convinced that one trip off each year is not sufficient rest for the commanders of the express steamers of the French Line, which ply continuously between France, England and the United States with only three days in port at each end of the run, Maurice Tiller, managing director of the company's entire organization, has appointed a relief commander, Rene Pugnet, to "pinch-hit," every third or fourth trip, for [illegible] of the Ile De France, Thomas of the Paris and Simon of the France.

The severe demands on both the physical and nervous systems of commanders, M. Tiller feels, warrants the more frequent relief which Capt. Pugnet's appointment will give them.

Pugnet is a remarkably versatile person. Besides being a commander and navigator of long experience, he is an aviator of distinction, an expert fencer, a formidable opponent in the boxing ring and a crack rifle and pistol shot. He plays both violin and piano, does very creditable portraits in [illegible] and his experiments with [illegible] photography have shown astonishing results.

Manager Fuchs
Evers for Him
Johnny Logical

Eddie Mack's Party
New Garden Palace
The World Forgets

By NICK FLATLEY

EVERS STRONG FOR JUDGE AS MANAGER

JOHNNY EVERS, who will be right eye and right and left orator of the 1929 Braves, believes that Judge Fuchs will make a good manager. Johnny always had keen logic to back up his wildest contentions and he hasn't changed a bit. Not that this contention is too wild.

Nick Flatley

"Managing a ball club these days," chirps the former Unhappy Warrior of baseball, "isn't simply a matter of knowing how to play the game. Every man on a big league club knows what ought to happen in any situation on the field. The modern manager is more of an advisor.

"It's up to him to keep his team going when things are breaking wrong. He has to keep them on the ground when they win a few games in the spring and think they're world champs. He must make them hustle when they think the umpires are on them, that they haven't a chance.

"The baseball part will take care of itself any time a club is hustling. The good manager keeps the fight spirit boiling up. I think Judge Fuchs can do that. He has been with the game for seven years. He knows the players now. He has judgment, and is willing to take a chance. And that's half the battle.

"There have been great managers before who never played Frank Selee, who had the Cubs when I joined them, was one of the best of all managers. And he never played a game of ball, except as a kid in the schoolyard, in his life.

"I know the Braves material pretty well. I was scouting for the Giants up to a year ago. With Jones and the others who come in that Hornsby deal, the club should have a pitching staff The judge and myself will try to see that the fighting, hustling idea is present. You needn't worry about that.'

Johnny, a bit older and more grizzled than he was when last around, still lives baseball 24 hours a day. He is the one man in the country calculated to disperse the gloom and stolidity that has hung over the Wigwam for too many years.

WITH EVERS AND CARRIGAN, BOSTON HAS BASEBALL'S TWO MOST FAMOUS FIGHTERS. ONE CLUB OR THE OTHER WILL LEAP OUT OF THE DEPTHS ONE OF THESE DAYS.

Could any All-America team want a better backfield than Cagle of Army, Scull of Penn, Miles of Princeton and Weston of Boston College? There may be better backs in the South and West, but it's hard to figure how.

TOM GOODWIN HELPED MANY—AND NOW

LIFE is full of contradictions. Eddie Mack is feted and toasted as is fitting and proper. He has worked his way to the top and deserves the honors and checks and everything else.

But here is another side of the story. You all remember Tom Goodwin. He founded the Suffolk Club, helped to discover Sharkey and Mello and other champions of ours.

He was a promoter here before Eddie broke into the game in a big way. He was a great friend to the boxers and managers, always ready with his free and easy checkbook.

Poor Tom died a few months ago, leaving nothing. He did leave a list of loans, of moneys handed out to scrappers and others in the business, who were up against it. That list totalled almost $10,000. Some of Tom's friends tried to collect a little of it—to pay the promoter's funeral expenses. But nothing came forth.

Death apparently wipes out all debts. Jack Sharkey, Sammy Fuller, Al Mello and a couple of others who were helped along the trail by Tom have come through, and taken over that bill.

One could draw morals from this, but it's just human nature. The world trails with the chap who is up there.

It was learned that Dempsey had stipulated that his opponent must be one of the following group: Uzcudun, Jack Sharkey, Knute Hansen or Young Stribling. Dempsey also is quoted as saying that he must get a percentage of the receipts that will assure him half a million dollars for his end.

While Rickard professed to believe that the negotiations were as good as closed, Dempsey was his usual non-committal self.

"I'm not ready to make any statements right now," Dempsey said at the dinner. Then he intimated that he had decided to attempt a comeback by adding: "Tex and I never had any trouble in the past over terms and we won't have any this time."

PRAISES PAULINO.

In a speech at the dinner he referred to Paulino as "one of the greatest and gamest heavyweights in the game today."

The next speaker, the grinning, gold toothed Basque, seized upon this opportunity to announce that he would fight the ex-champion on June 15, 1929, at the Yankee Stadium. He declined to amplify that statement.

Dempsey and his wife plan to leave for Los Angeles next Monday or Tuesday. According to Rickard, the old Manassa Man Mauler will meet him in the South in January for the signing ceremony.

HEAVYWEIGHTS WILL CLASH AT ST. JOE'S

Heavyweight boxers will feature the week's amateur tournament of St. Joseph's T. A. S. in Commercial Hall, Bowdoin sq., on Saturday night.

For the past three weeks, the boys have been thrilling the crowds in the "Home of Action" with never less than four title bouts. This week Director William H. Cuddy expects six of the young men in that division.

In addition to the heavyweight class, the 112, 126, 135 and 147 pounds division will be open to all comers while the 118 and 160 pounds classes will be limited to novices.

EAGLES DEPART FOR BUFFALO TONIGHT

By JOHN B. GILLOOLY

Coach Joe McKenney and his squad of 31 [illegible] will leave tonight on the 7:35 train from the South Station for Buffalo where they hope to chalk up their seventh win of the current campaign and keep the Boston College escutcheon stainless at the expense of Canisius College.

Joe keeps smiling at trouble, but down deep in his heart he admits a dire dread of Saturday's gridiron clash in the Bison city. He's more upset over this contest than he has been at any time this fall.

It looks now as though Paddy Creedon will be able to play and that Boston College will go into the game with its full man power. St. McKenney is nervous, for he's bringing a rather weary lot of gridders with him who will be playing their second hard game in six days.

The B. C. squad is applying arnica to the bruises received in the Fordham game. There aren't any major injuries in the Heights camp, but Trainer Jones is working overtime rubbing the rough spots out of the arms and legs of the B. C. legion.

Boston College will arrive in Buffalo about 8 o'clock tomorrow morning. McKenney will give his boys the morning off to get their land legs, but they'll report at the Canisius stadium for a two-hour workout in the afternoon.

This workout will probably be the best possible boon to Boston College's chances of remaining on top. They will have a chance to get acquainted with the scene of battle and to become acclimated to the weather which is much colder than it has been in Boston.

Coach Luke Urban, famous end on Cavanaugh's [illegible] eleven, at Boston College, has a good team at Canisius. And he has had good teams since he took over the reins up there in 1922.

B. C. has been well scouted by Canisius. There have been Buffalo men in the press box at every B. C. game this season. Frank Mahoney, former B. C. hockey player, has done most of it. He's helping Luke with the Canisius team.

HARVARD OUT TO WIN WITH PASS GAME

The Holy Cross squad has been hurt by a list of injuries all year.

Holy Cross will be outweighed by Harvard, but it is not likely to be outcharged or outfought.

Only two of four backs who started the game against Brown, two weeks ago, are in the first team backfield. Henry Shanahan is at quarter and Stuart Clancy, Bill Dowling and Francis Garrity. This combination will start the Harvard game.

B. U. IN LAST SCRIMMAGE OF SEASON

[illegible]

ICE LEAGUE LID PRIED OFF

The National League hockey season will open in five cities of the United States and Canada tonight, [illegible] The Boston Bruins open at Pittsburgh, Chicago is at Detroit, New York Americans at Ottawa, New York Rangers at [illegible] Montreal, and [illegible] the Montreal [illegible]

[illegible]

The Bruins squad, left the city last night with all hands eagerly looking forward to the season's start.

Manager Ross stated before his squad left Boston that he would be happy to get an even break on the road. The Bruins are not worrying about taking Pittsburgh tonight, but they do feel that Ottawa will [illegible] and will have the added advantage of pre-season training in a [illegible] climate than Boston.

The probable starting Bruins team tonight will have Gabratto, lw; Fredrickson, c; Oliver, rw; Capt. Hitchman, ld; Shore, rd; Thompson, g. The Bruins will throw two new forward lines at the Pirates: Gainer, Green and Rodden probably teaming in one line, and Pettinger, Welland and Deneney in the other.

Record Crowd for Garden Opening

In spite of the fact that the approaching fourth annual boxing carnival of the Crosscup-Pishon Post, American Legion, at the opening of the new Boston Garden, the Hub's most magnificent sports palace has been marked by the greatest ticket sale on record, according to an announcement made by officers of the post, there are plenty of choice seats remaining for this year's charity event and it is the hope of the committee that all seats will be disposed of.

With seating accommodations for [illegible] spectators at the new Garden, it is anticipated that all seats will be filled by a drive during the next three days, which is expected to put this charity event over the top, greater than ever before in the history of this annual affair.

The Crosscup-Pishon Post is selling tickets at their headquarters at [illegible] Washington st and in order to accommodate the last minute rush tickets also are being handled at the Argonne A. A. office, 5 Court st.

In order to make the opening of the new Boston Garden an event which will attract thousands of out of town boxing fans, the Boston & Maine Railroad has arranged to sell tickets at reduced rates within a [illegible] miles of Boston. These tickets will be sold at the rate of about two cents a mile and will allow the fans living at distant points a chance to buy round trip tickets at the price of a one way ticket.

This feature will endure only for Saturday. In addition, a new schedule of late trains to accommodate the crowds after the show is being arranged and will be announced soon, for it is expected that on account of a number of novelties the show will extend later than usual.

And while the committee of the Crosscup-Pishon Post is staging a final drive in hopes of sending the gate for this opening event to a new record in the history of boxing in this city, all the principals of the boxing card are in the Hub and putting the final touches on their training for the five bouts on the card in what is regarded as the most brilliant fistic offering in the history of the city.

Andre Routis, the champion, who has thrilled followers of the game by his speed and punching ability in his daily sessions at Kelly & Hayes' gym again worked out with Benny Valger, the French flash, yesterday before another big crowd and while Routis doesn't say so, his handlers expect him to win by the knockout route, for Routis is a hard puncher and generally aims his attack for the body. Whether Finnegan can stand up under the fusillade of punches is the question bothering local fans.

Finnegan is still at his Wamesit training camp and yesterday spent most of the afternoon in the ring with no less than four sparring partners. It is doubtful if Finnegan ever was in better condition for a bout than now.

Gaston Charles, of France, who meets "Red" Chapman of Chelsea in the secondary feature on the card, arrived in the Hub yesterday and went directly to Kelly and Hayes'

Tufts Has New Plays Set for M. A. C. Fray

A very light session today and another tomorrow will wind up the Jumbos' preparation for their annual game with M. A. C. Saturday at the Oval. Signal practice and dummy scrimmage will be the features of the workout today, with a short talk on the plays that the Farmers have employed in their games to date.

The dummy scrimmage today will be devoted to defensive formations. The Tufts outfit is all ready to open up a bag of new and deceptive plays in this game.

Short and long passes, lateral and hidden ball plays, with double and triple passes will be used to baffle the defense. Tufts has one of the smoothest running attacks in college football when Fish Ellis is in the lineup. The passing game is apt to make the Jumbos well nigh undefeatable.

Practice was given over to the perfection of the new attack. With Ellis and Phillips throwing the ball and running with it the scrubs were completely baffled and the varsity walked through them almost at will.

The passing game has shown great improvement this week and it seems to be one of the best offensive weapons that this team has.

The play of the line received special attention in the workout, and it is expected that it will turn in a fine game on Saturday. The intense competition that has resulted because of the showing of the substitute frontier in the Middlebury game, has had a good effect on the players.

Some of the first-string men who figured that they had their jobs cinched have had to fight for their right to start in the objective game and know that capable substitutes are waiting to step into their places the minute that they begin to let down.

Aggies Regular Guard Out of Tufts Game

Amherst, Nov. 15—Mass Aggies will be without the services of their regular guard, Floyd Brackley, when they meet Tufts at Medford, Saturday.

Brackley received a shoulder injury in the Springfield game which does not respond to treatment.

Although light, he has played at guard all season and his aggressiveness and speed have made him a valuable member of forward line.

Lu Howard, halfback, was back in uniform for the first time since the Amherts game, and appears to be in good shape.

Tiger a 2-1 Favorite Over Yale Eleven

New Haven, Ct, Nov. 15—Yale football regulars face today's practice like schoolboys kept after class is dismissed. They had hopes that the last strenuous scrimmage would close warlike preparations for Princeton.

But they were told by Head Coach Mal Stevens when it [illegible]

[illegible] dent of the Conn. Manufacturers Association.

Dunn starred as freshman half back last year. Yale's final lineup today indicated that five who started at Princeton will begin tomorrow's game, including Capt. Eddy, right tackle; Charlesworth, center; Greene, left guard; Hoben, quarterback; and Decker, fullback.

Coaches went over the substitutes' assignment list. Frank Oldt, Barney Crile and Hickok will be driven in to the end places as reserves, Richards, McCalmont and Ladd as [illegible] guards, Palmer and Wright, center; Wilson and Fishbardt, quarterback, Dunn, Lampe, Saltz and Miller at halfback.

SHANAHAN AT QUARTER IN H. C. PRACTICE

Worcester, Nov. 15—Holy Cross toiled until long after dark today, in preparation for the tussle with Harvard on Saturday. The Purple realizes that for the first time in three years, they enter the Stadium the real underdogs, yet a quiet optimism pervades the Crusader camp.

Harvard is the favorite, but their [illegible] is, "Beat Harvard." The frontier wall is expected to stop the charges of the Crimson backs, and Cleo O'Donnell is busy organizing an offense that will be able to penetrate the strong Harvard line.

There will be no scrimmage for the Purple this week, for O'Donnell is fearful that injuries might deprive him of some of his regulars [illegible] just rounding into shape. [illegible] aerial attack of the Crusaders [illegible] expected to cause the Harvard [illegible] some anxious moments next Saturday.

Bonus Ryan's long passes raised [illegible] in the Stadium two years ago and with the Harvard defense supposed to be no stronger than it was then, the Purple is paying particular attention to aeronautics.

Work on the tackling dummy occupied a goodly portion of the practice today. If the Harvard backs are to be stopped, the tackling of the Crusaders must not be as slipshod as it has been in the last few games.

The ends in particular had a long workout on the dummy. A lengthy signal session followed the dummy workout, and the first backfield had Shanahan at quarterback, Garrity and Dowling, halfbacks, and Clancy, fullback. This is the likely starting backfield, with Evers and Baker as reserve fullbacks.

Shanahan seems to have filled the quarterback position to perfection, and is expected to lead the team in a brainy battle with the Crimson.

DALEY AND PACHECO IN GO AT LYNN

Tommy Daley, Lynn's favorite [illegible]weight, will box Pete Pacheco, rugged Ute Indian, in the feature bout of the Crescent A. C. in Casino Hall, Lynn, next Monday night.

After a long layoff, Daley returned to the ring three weeks ago and showed better form than ever in whipping Ray Cross. In Pacheco he will meet a strong, courageous middleweight who will test him much more severely.

Tony Magna of the North End, who has appeared in Lynn on several occasions, will box Mickey Harrington, fighting Irishman, from Providence, in the eight-round semi final bout. Two six rounders will complete the card.

BROWN TAKES N. H. CONFLICT SERIOUSLY

Providence, R. I., Nov. 15—Faced with an easier game after two successive major encounters, the Brown varsity is on its serious drive for the New Hampshire game Saturday.

New Hampshire is not to be taken as a set-up by any means, and Coach McLaughry passed the word down that the team must fight.

Hopes for a run of victories through the remainder of the season are high, and Brown is out to hold the status that she now enjoys.

A defeat at the hands of Yale in the early season has deprived the Bruin of any championship hopes, but a run of victories through the remaining games would leave Brown with but one defeat and that record [illegible] in the season's reckoning.

Moreover, Brown has a group of individuals who are destined to stand well toward the top in the final ratings, for Capt. Al Cornsweet, Lincoln Fogarty, and Dick Marsan are three good backs.

New Hampshire has had a season marked by mediocre success, but is always counted a capable organization, and the Bruin has had too many close battles with the Wildcat team to permit any dilatory work.

Indications are that McLaughry will be able to call out a team of full strength barring unforseen mishaps, for most of the men came through the Dartmouth battle in fine condition.

Schein, Munroe, and Fogarty all had severe bruises, but two days of rest and light work have already brought its improvement; and they are ready for play.

Princeton Works on Signals for Yale Conflict

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 15—With the Yale game only two days away Bill Roper gave his charges a long signal drill on University Field. The continual alternating of Trix Bennett and Jack Requardt as left half back in the first lineup, started some doubt as to which man would face the Elis for the opening kick off Saturday.

The quartet of ball carriers who would start against Yale had seemed certain to include Bennett along with Wittmer, Norman and Miles, but the veteran Requardt may start in place of Bennett.

It seems unlikely that Requardt will start the game, however, because the punting and passing of the team would be higher with the sophomore passing the ball [illegible]

In case Princeton elects to use a rushing offense against the Blue, the Tigers will be strengthened with both Wittmer and Jack Requardt sharing the burden of the attack, but when the Nassau offensive opens up, then Bennett or Dave Lowry are the main springs of the aerial play.

Wittmer is also a possible tosser of forwards but not so sure as the other two men.

Findlay Douglas U. S. G. A. President

New York, Nov. 14 (AP)—The nominating committee of the United States Golf Association has selected Findlay S. Douglas of New York to succeed Melvin A. Traylor of Chicago as president of the association.

Douglas heads the official ticket, made public by the nominating committee yesterday, and will be inducted into the office at the annual meeting in January. Nomination amounts to election.

H. H. Ramsay of New York and Roger D. Lapham were nominated as vice presidents, Prescott S. Bush secretary, and Charles H. Sabin, treasurer, will be re-elected.

TWO WORLD'S SWIM RECORDS ARE BROKEN

Honolulu, Nov. 15 (INS)—Two world's swimming records were established here [illegible] by Johnny Weissmuller and "Buster" Crabbe.

The Illinois flash shattered the 150-yard mark by cleaving through the water in 1 minute 26 seconds Crabbe, representing the Outrigger Canoe Club, broke the record in the 300-meter medley event in 4 minutes 13 seconds.

HENIGAN AND DE MAR WON'T TURN PRO

[illegible] De Mar [illegible] marathon star, and Jimmy Henigan will not turn professional to race against El Ouafi, the Olympic marathon winner, and Joie Ray, when they meet in their professional race at the new Boston Garden Saturday evening, November [illegible].

Both De Mar and Henigan were offered lucrative contracts to race against this pair of champions, but neither would accept.

Henigan and De Mar still want to remain among the simon pures. As a matter of fact Henigan is entered to represent New England in the coming National A. A. U. cross-country title race over in Van Courtland Park, N. Y., next Sunday afternoon and he would rather win this race than any professional contest.

De Mar likewise refuses to listen to call of the coin. Not that De Mar would be averse to competing against either star, but he dislikes the professional running game.

Both De Mar and Henigan already have raced against Ouafi and Ray in the Olympic marathon at Amsterdam, where the Algerian finished first and Ray fifth. De Mar could not do better than finish 29th while Jimmy Henigan was further back.

Fordham Line Is Bolstered for Detroit

New York, Nov. 15—Further attempts to bolster the tackles and ends of the Fordham University eleven was made by Maj. Cavanaugh.

The team was drilled at length in a dummy scrimmage stressing defense in an effort to have sturdy opposition for Lloyd Brazil, great halfback of the University of Detroit eleven, which Fordham meets Saturday at the Polo grounds.

Bill McMahon and Al Cullen, Fordham's best pair of halfbacks, who have been nursing injuries for the greater part of the season, will not be able to play against Detroit.

Dorchester and Latin play at Braves Field today, and the outcome of the game will decide in a large measure the resting place of the City League championship. Latin is ready for the fray, with its star quarterback, Rabinovitz; its new and efficient fullback, Gould, and its game captain, Billy Adler.

Dorchester will start [illegible] Haven [illegible] ready to play [illegible]

Tilton School, Somerville's opponent on Saturday, has been [illegible] every team in its class [illegible] rather lopsided scores [illegible] generally recognized as state [illegible] champion of New Hampshire.

Phil Kinney, former Colgate star, is coach of Tilton's eleven, which has run up 163 points to its opponents 38.

The Tilton line averages around 167 pounds, while the backfield has an average weight of 175 pounds.

Tilton has made arrangements for a post-season game with Castle Heights Military Academy of Lebanon, Tennessee. The date has been set for December 8 and the contest will take place in New York City.

Rogers High of Newport, Rhode Island, is often compared with Notre Dame because of the fact that it does a great deal of travelling and plays most of its games away from home as does Knute Rockne's famous team.

This Saturday, Rogers travels to Medford to do gridiron battle with Coach Collins' eleven, and Newport fans are confident that their team will be victorious.

Rogers High defeated Dean Seconds, Durfee High of Fall River, [illegible] State Freshmen, St. George's School and Providence Tech. After [illegible] Medford, Rogers takes on Worcester North, Nov. [illegible] and De La Salle High of Newport on Thanksgiving Day.

Four of the Rogers High team, Sherman, right tackle; Tietz, left guard; Shea quarterback; and Cooper, fullback; are practically assured places on the Rhode Island All-State team, which is similar to the All-Scholastic teams of Massachusetts.

Joe Nevins, the coach of the Rogers football team, has charge of all sports at Rogers High and [illegible] without assistants.

His cross-country team won the championship of Rhode Island last [illegible] and his basketball teams have a record of 103 wins and 8 losses for the last five years.

Judge Denies Wright to Become a Brave

Judge Fuchs, manager-owner of the Braves, has denied the truth of a story published in New York to the effect that Glenn Wright, star shortstop of the Pittsburgh Pirates, is to come to the Braves.

"The news of the Braves will continue to be given out from Boston and not from New York," said the judge when questioned as to the deal. "If there was anything to the story, we would give it out immediately here in Boston."

MR. BOSTON By Jack Conway

"WHAT is the chief reason for the new popularity of the boxing game?" asked Mr. Boston two of the best boxers to ever represent New England in the ring.

"FINNEGAN and Chapman had slipped away from their training camp at Wamesit to do honor to their friend, Eddie Mack. Dick is boxing Andre Routis, world's featherweight champion, in the feature 10-round bout at the opening of the Boston Garden on Saturday night, while Red is tackling Gaston Charles of France in the semi-final.

"Boxers of the type of Finnegan and Chapman are the best propaganda the ring game can have. Their clean living prevents the reformers from attacking the sport.

"In the days before legalized boxing, Eddie Shevlin, Jack Britton, Eddie Murphy and other clean living young men saved the game. One could not condemn a sport which had such standard bearers.

"I remember her when she was beautiful"

"IT WASN'T so long ago either. Her complexion was the envy of every girl and woman. Her radiant manner was felt the instant she entered the room. How her eyes did sparkle as she talked! . . . But now you'd hardly know she was the same person. Her animation is gone — her clear skin is sallow and her eyes dull. She's always tired — often irritable. . . ."

Here's what has been said about countless women all over the country. And while friends and relatives deplore the facts, no one is more unhappy than the woman who has lost her health and beauty.

Yet, all this could have been prevented. The cause, often constipation, is so easily removed by Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Happily, thousands of women have made this discovery. By regular eating of ALL-BRAN they have regained all that they lost. In beauty. In radiance. In health. In joy of living.

But you need ALL-BRAN—not "part-bran"

It is the "bulk" in bran that relieves constipation. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has a large amount of bulk. This bulk absorbs moisture and carries it throughout the digestive system. Gently distending the intestines —exercising them, purifying, eliminating poisonous wastes. In a part-bran product there is seldom enough bulk to do this work. That is why doctors recommend ALL-BRAN. Because it is 100% bran —and brings 100% results. Results no part-bran product can hope to equal!

How different from dangerous pills

How much better than habit-forming drugs and laxatives! Which become useless unless the dose is constantly increased—and sometimes injure the system. How much pleasanter than sickening medicines! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a delicious cereal. Serve it with milk or cream—and add fruits or honey if desired. Let it soak a few moments in the milk to bring out all its nutlike flavor. Use it in cooking too. Try the appetizing recipes on every package. Serve it in soups. Mix it with other cereals—for health! Just eat two tablespoonfuls in some form daily—in chronic cases, with every meal.

Keep ALL-BRAN always on hand—a package of health. But be sure it is genuine Kellogg's—the original ALL-BRAN. Don't risk part-bran substitutes. At best, they can be but partially effective. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Served at all hotels and restaurants. On dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Guaranteed! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

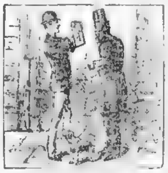
A Looking Glass Is of No Use to a Blind Man



A LANTERN is of no use to a bat, and good teaching is lost on the man who will not learn. It is worse to be blind to reason than to be blind to sight. The other day I met a man who was a fool. I held up the looking glass of reason, but he stuck to everything he said, like cobbler's wax. "See here, friend," said I, "you talk as if you carried all knowledge in your waistcoat pocket, like a peppermint lozenge. I don't care to hold a mirror up to a mole." How I wish I could make the poor fellow see as I do, but if a man has no eyes he can't see the sun, though his nose be scorched by the glare of it.

BAER FACTS -:- By BUGS BAER

IT begins to ... State will have too many Governors—or not enough—this season.

The election on the first Tuesday after the first opera night in November resulted in somebody being elected. But nobody knows who it is.

Franklin Roosevelt claims that he is Governor and that Ottinger exhausts the quota.

Ottinger insists that he is elected by a scrambled majority and wants to know who threw the mice in the ballot box.

When asked to concede the official scenario, Ottinger said there was nothing to concede. He insists that they check up the vote again.

After they tabulate the statistics then Roosevelt will step forth and say: "Now, you have counted it your way. Now we will count it my way."

They will keep this up until exhausted. When Ottinger is doing the addition the Republicans will be triumphant.

When Roosevelt starts steering the adding machine it will be a glorious victory for the Democrats.

We don't mind how many times they check up the vote. What worries us is that they may get so enthusiastic that they will insist on running the campaign all over again and force us to listen to their speeches for the second time.

Of course ...

So far as we are concerned ...

SCALP TROUBLE FOR 3 YEARS

Hair Fell Out, Was Dry and Lifeless. Healed by Cuticura.

"My scalp bothered me for three years. It itched and burned and my hair fell out in combfuls. My scalp was so sore that I could hardly comb my hair, which was very dry and lifeless. Nothing I used did any good. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. I got such relief from it that I purchased more, and in two months I was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Chas. Craig, 37 Astor St., Boston, Mass.

Keep your skin clear by using Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum for daily toilet purposes. Touch pimples and itching, if any, with Cuticura Ointment, bathe with Cuticura Soap and hot water.

NO ONE NEED HAVE CORNS ANY LONGER

Newest, Best Remedy For Corns Stops Pain—Shoes Don't Hurt Any More

SIX WAFERS FOR 10c GUARANTEED RESULTS

The newest, best remedy for corns is a tiny, thin as paper corn wafer. No burning acids or bulky doughnut pads to add pressure when shoes are on. Press an "O-Joy Corn Wafer" on the corn or callous with your finger. It sticks there. Strong as oxen, gentle as can be. The pain stops at once. Slip shoes on and forget it. Later out comes corn, callous, roots and all. Guaranteed to never fail. Ask druggist for O-Joy Corn Wafers—six wafers for 10c.

Rubber Companies Should Improve---Explains Hedging

By B. C. FORBES

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—Britain's artificial restriction of rubber [illegible] American [illegible] companies [illegible] more hope [illegible] of being able to earn [illegible] able dividends for their stockholders. No industry has suffered more from violent fluctuations in the cost of raw material. Rubber has fluctuated [illegible] was [illegible] a pound and $1.?? a pound.

This has made [illegible] [illegible] largely a gamble. And the [illegible]

B. C. Forbes.

[illegible]

[illegible] what has [illegible] wrong with certain rubber companies, who have lost in the crude rubber market so that it affects their earning statement, is that they sell on an assured form of contract to the car manufacturers. It's the kind of contract they lose on whether the market goes up or down. The only time they can win is when the market is [illegible].

"Did you ever stop to consider that the car manufacturer is not greatly interested in the quality of the tires he puts on his cars, since they are the only thing on his car for which he bears no responsibility to his buying public?

"Against my better judgment I went into the rubber pool a few years back. We lost plenty in the rubber pool this year."

Artificial schemes to [illegible] late prices have more often than not proved failures in the end. Britain planned to control rubber prices by withholding the surplus from the market and feeding it out in increasing quantities only as the price was marked higher and higher. This created international friction which at one time threatened to become a grave political issue between America and Britain. Secretary of Commerce Hoover ardently championed America's cause. Now the whole plan has been abandoned as unworkable.

Rubber is quoted on the New York Rubber Exchange this week around 18¾ cents per pound, which must be regarded as very low—in fact producers claim that current prices are below the cost of production in most places.

Now that foreigners have dropped their selling pool it is to be hoped that no fresh friction will develop through any resented pool buying operations by the industry in this country.

Natural markets—like most natural things—are the best in the end.

New York Curb

New York, Nov. 15—Massey Harris jumped 14½ points to [illegible], its highest price on record, in the Curb market today. Price movements were greatly confused. Cotton Knit Back sold at 20¾, up 1, for 5?00 shares; Union Tobacco, in an [illegible] sale of 1700 shares, declined [illegible] to 25⅝. Barnsdall debenture rights opened down ⅝, at 24⅞, for 5000 shares, while a gain of 2⅝ points was recorded by American Cyanamid B, selling at 45⅛ for 2[illegible] shares. In an initial transaction involving 6700 shares Northeastern Power advanced 1⅞ to 16⅞. [illegible] to 42, and Hart Parr declined 1¼ to 53¾. [illegible] while Newmont Mining declined 2¾ to 187¾.

GREAT Northern Paper Co. declared regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share, payable Dec. 1.

Washington Shrine

It Should Be owned, Preserved and Cared For as the N...

When constructed, the memorial boulevard from Washington to Mount Vernon will be one of the finest highways of the world. The last Congress made provision for the restoration of Wakefield Manor, birthplace of Washington. Both these projects are thoroughly deserving. But they re call that the ownership of Mount Vernon by a private association is an anomaly beyond reasonable explanation.

The Mount Vernon Ladies Association performed a timely and useful purpose in saving the Washington seat as a national shrine, but Mount Vernon ought to be owned, cared for, preserved by the nation.

The Mount Vernon Memorial Boulevard is a fine conception; but that boulevard leading to a Mount Vernon whose gates are only opened on the payment of an admission fee, and are closed on Sunday when most people have their only opportunity to visit it, is altogether too suggestive of building a toll road at Government expense for private profit.

What Will Children Be?

They Will Have a Marvellous Start

MR. AND MRS. EUGENE TUNNEY

This excellent photograph shows the powerful, intelligent and handsome young world's champion Gene Tunney and his beautiful wife.

The world congratulates Mr. Tunney for many reasons—for his prowess and courage in winning the heavyweight championship of the world after fighting for his country in the Marines and even in France, for the intelligence he showed in retiring from the prize ring at the right time, abandoning a career that was at best distasteful to him, when he had made sufficient money to provide for the future.

The world congratulates Mr. Tunney especially on having secured for his wife the beautiful Miss Mary Josephine Lauder, with every good quality that a woman should have.

Mr. Tunney and his wife are highly developed, mentally and physically.

Like her husband, Mrs. Tunney is an athletic, an admirable swimmer with unusual health and strength as well as beauty.

The world knows Tunney, the conqueror of Dempsey and student of Shakespeare.

Students of eugenics, the science of producing a finer human race, will ask the one important question, important on every occasion when young people are married:

WHAT KIND OF CHILDREN WILL THIS COUPLE SUPPLY TO THE NEXT GENERATION?

That is the question that interests the world, for gradually, men selecting wisely, supplying strength and courage in women, supplying moral character, the human race has improved.

Certainly from this marriage there should come, so far as human calculation can go, a fine line of human beings.

Mr. Tunney is deeply in love with his wife, which is MOST important to the quality of children. His wife love and RESPECTS him, which is even more important to the children.

Everybody will hope that the children of these young people will be a credit to their father and mother and their country, representatives of the only REAL aristocracy, based not on title, or money, or ancient name, but on THE QUALITIES OF THE PARENTS.

However, fortunately for the average run of us, you never can tell in what family great genius will develop, any more than you can tell in what corner of a river bed or in

The Eternal Mutiny

by Herbert Kaufman

Nursery yarns tell us how the other parts of the body once decided to boycott the belly.

"We're sick of doing all the work and getting nothing for it," they grumbled. "Hereafter we'll not sweat and toil for a lazy glutton who gobbles the entire fruit of our effort."

Whereupon the eye refused to locate food, the limbs declined to till and fetch—even teeth and gullet joined the strike against "that greedy profiteer."

But pretty soon mutinous members and senses found their own strength sapping away and realized, in ostracizing the stomach, that they were planning to commit suicide.

Later on, the working folk of Rome decided that capitalists and distributors were a parasite class, moved to a hill-top of their own and organized a separate community from which the "White Toga" element was strictly excluded.

Patient statesmanship first let them flounder in the muddles to which inexperienced management promptly brought them, and then used Aesop's apt fable to show how no one section of the body politic can succeed or survive without the assistance and co-operation of the rest.

Finally, Russia, disdaining precedent, takes a blind fling at the identical game, reconfirms eternal verities, and now desperately calls skilled captaincy back to industry and finance.

Civilization is an exquisitely balanced machine with stresses and strains distributed through the entire economic structure.

Nations are dependent upon no particular class; their burdens are proportionately carried by producing, underwriting, manufacturing and dispensing groups.

Prosperity is borne by farm and city alike; perhaps a high-falutin way of saying that give-and-take and get-together commonly rule progress.

All of which foregoing was, long ago, handily crowded into a single phrase and blazoned on the shield of America: "United we stand, divided we fall."

BAER FACTS -:- By BUGS BAER

IT begins to look as if New York State will have too many Governors—or not enough—this season.

The election on the first Tuesday after the first opera night in November resulted in somebody being elected. But nobody knows who it is.

Franklin Roosevelt claims that he is Governor and that Ottinger exhausts the quota.

Ottinger insists that he is elected by a scrambled majority and wants to know who threw the mice in the ballot box.

When asked to concede the official scenario, Ottinger said there was nothing to concede. He insists that they check up the vote again.

After they tabulate the statistics, then Roosevelt will step forth and say: "Now, you have counted it your way. Now we will count it my way."

They will keep this up until exhausted. When Ottinger is doing the addition the Republicans will be triumphant.

When Roosevelt starts steering the adding machine it will be a glorious victory for the Democrats.

We don't mind how many times they check up the vote. What worries us is that they may get so enthusiastic that they will insist on running the campaign all over again and force us to listen to their speeches for the second time.

Of course, they could compromise. Roosevelt could wear the high hat and Ottinger might collect the salary.

So far as we are concerned, the election is over. As Al Smith said in his valedictory lament:

"It behoovers me—"

It was the kid's last crack. There was no doubt that Al was behoovered.

In the meantime, Ottinger refuses to take off his Sunday clothes. He intends to go to Albany and park himself in the high chair.

Roosevelt seems to have a majority of 25,000 Democratic votes. Ottinger claims he can offset that with three healthy Republicans and one election judge.

Unless the boys straighten out the tangled spaghetti it looks as if New York will have to struggle along with two Governors and call in a third one when necessary.

LET CHILD MAKE XMAS GIFTS

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

HAPPY and extremely lucky is the child whose parents love Christmas time. And if they love it and enjoy it, it is usually because they are individuals who like to give—and by giving I do not mean necessarily material things, but themselves, their thoughts and affection. For only as we stand with open hands and understanding hearts for our fellow men do we receive pure joy in living.

To my mind, a gift which is purchased hastily, wrapped in a perfunctory manner and thrust at me means nothing, no matter how expensive it may be. But the gift which has been fashioned by the donor's own hands, engendered by thought and affection, even though it be of no intrinsic value, means everything. So to give your child the full joy of Christmas time, the full measure of all this season holds in character building, let him make his gifts with his own hands.

Even very small children can paint things. Put them into old clothes and lay newspapers on the floor. A lovely gift for grandmother's kitchen can be made by painting a flower pot a gay yellow, cutting bright flower pictures from magazines and sticking these on while the paint is wet. Let the child fill the jar with dirt and plant parsley seeds in it. The fact that grandmother has a surprise in store for her when the seeds come up, will make it best and most "giggly" act of a secret between the two of you. For this gift you will need only five cents worth of parsley seeds, one small can of colored blotter and one brush.

For brother or a playmate, the child will still have enough lacquer left to paint an empty coffee can, or candy box football. Let this dry and ask father to punch a hole on either side through which a long, heavy cord is run. This makes a lovely drum. You will need to purchase two drumsticks at the ten cent store, or if there is a big brother handy, he will enjoy whittling these from wood.

For father's office, the child can make a useful gift from a half-pint ice cream carton. This may be painted with his water-colors, or decorated with Christmas stickers. Punch a round hole in the center of the top. Put inside, a ball of gay colored twine and pull one free end through the hole. Necessary materials are one ball of twine and stickers.

Mother will find daily use for a dozen green or red blotters (obtainable at stationery or school supply stores) upon each being pasted one month's calendar. The small calendars can be bought for three for a nickel and carefully separated, one pasted in each upper left-hand corner, and the dozen calendared blotters tied together with a shiny green ribbon

A Looking Glass Is of No Use to a Blind Man

Editor's Note—We print another scorcher sermon from "Plain Talk for Plain People," a handy volume of vest pocket sermonettes.

A LANTERN is of no use to a bat, and good teaching is lost on the man who will not learn. It is worse to be blind to reason than to be blind to sight. The other day I met a man who was a fool. I held up the looking glass of reason, but he stuck to everything he said, like cobbler's wax. "See here, friend," said I, "you talk as if you carried all knowledge in your waistcoat pocket, like a peppermint lozenge. I don't care to hold a mirror up to a mole." How I wish I could make the poor fellow see as I do, but if a man has no eyes he can't see the sun, though his nose be scorched by the glare of it.

SMART SAYINGS OF CLEVER CHILDREN

The Boston Evening American will pay $1 for published smart sayings. Address "Smart Sayings," Boston Evening American.

May was bothering her brother so much that I ordered her to sit down on a chair until he had finished dressing. After patiently obeying orders for a few minutes she pleaded:

"Jimmy, can't I get up?"

Jimmy, two years her senior, answered:

"You'll have to ask mother. I don't own you."

Headaches may be swiftly and safely relieved by a Bayer Aspirin tablet. A most efficient remedy, and there's no after effect; its use avoids much needless suffering. Try it next time; see how soon its soothing influence is felt. Just as helpful when you have a cold; neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism, lumbago. Just be certain you get real Bayer Aspirin—the genuine has Bayer on the box, and on every tablet. All druggists, with proven directions.

Physicians prescribe Bayer Aspirin; it does NOT affect the heart

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

MARGIN CASH REQUIREMENT MADE HIGHER

By FRANK H. MELOON, Financial Editor.

In line with the suggestions made in this column Monday, numerous brokerage houses have made considerable advances in margin cash requirements on stocks not listed on the big exchange. This step is calculated not only to slow up too hectic soaring of these issues, but also to avert possibly serious results in the event of temporary general recessions.

Curtailments rather than additions to carrier mileage have been the rule the past few years. Therefore it is of special interest to note the plans of Rock Island to extend trackage 138 miles from Allerton, Ia., to Birmingham, Mo. Rock Island is recalled as the rail achieving a remarkable comeback, largely through the work of N. L. Amster, Boston and New York financier of great vision, as director.

At a recent meeting of directors of Boulevard Trust Co. Edwin K. Marshall was elected president, succeeding William A. McKenney. Mr. McKenney will devote his efforts to special administrative problems as member of the executive committee and vice-president. Mr. Marshall as president of Old Colony Corp. of Boston, the investment division of Old oColny Trust Co., heads one of the outstanding investment houses of the East. He is also vice-president of Old Colony Trust Co., and trustee of Old Colony Investment Trust and Old Colony Trust Associates.

Rubber Companies Should Improve---Explains Hedging

By B. C. FORBES

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—Britain's artificial regulation of rubber prices having ended this month, American rubber companies are more hopeful of being able to earn acceptable dividends for their stockholders. No industry has suffered more from violent fluctuations in the cost of raw material. Rubber has fluctuated all the way between 12c a pound and $1.21 a pound.

B. C. Forbes.

This has made rubber manufacturing largely a gamble. And the odds have proved against the owners (stockholders) of rubber manufacturing companies.

A reader wants to know why rubber manufacturers have not followed the example of cotton manufacturers for example, by "hedging" against contracts made for future deliveries of manufactured goods.

The explanation is interesting.

Hedging means covering one's raw material requirements to fill a contract. There is always a market fo rdealing in cotton "futures"; that is to say, you can place an order at any season of the year at a specified price for delivery of cotton at any later date desired. Thus the cotton manufacturer largely eliminates gambling in his raw material costs.

A Rubber Exchange having been established in New York, also providing for dealing in "futures," why do not rubber manufacturers try to protect themselves against fluctuations in the cost of rubber?

I put this question to a rubber manufacturer whom I regard as one of the ablest in the industry, and here is his reply, which throws light on other phases of the rubber business:

"Hedges in the rubber business are not as good as in cotton, because the great bulk of rubber is used by the tire factories, and anything that affects the tire business immediately affects the rubber market; consequently, you haven't got a broad enough market to operate in successfully.

"Practically 70 per cent of the world's rubber is used in this country. This is not true of cotton. Anything that affects the tire market in this country affects the rubber market. The real market for rubber is London, but the real consuming of rubber is in this country. A certain amount of hedging can be done. A miller can hedge wheat much easier than a large tire manufacturer can hedge rubber. By the way, the rubber market is the only market in the world that works on three shift. We have Singapore, London and New York.

"Furthermore, the nature of rubber is different from cotton. Rubber is not a yearly crop. It is not affected by weather conditions. When there is too much rubber, there is liable to be too much rubber for quite a while, and vice versa. This is the reason you have so much governmental tampering with the rubber market. Furthermore, a large percentage of the tire business is sold to retailers, and the contracts or orders are not firm orders. The cotton manufacturer secures an order which is a firm order at a fixed price and can hedge his position.

"The basic thing that has been wrong with certain rubber companies, who have lost in the crude rubber market so that it affects their earning statement, is that they sell on an absurd form of contract to the car manufacturers. It's the kind of contract they lose on whether the market goes up or down. The only time they can win is when the market is stable.

"Did you ever stop to think that the car manufacturer isn't greatly interested in the quality of the tires he puts on his cars because they are the only thing on his car for which he bears no responsibility to his buying pub'ic?

"Against my better judgment I went into the rubber pool a few years back. We lost plenty on the rubber pool this year."

Artificial schemes to regulate prices have more often than not proved failures in the end. Britain planned to control rubber prices by withholding the supply from the market and feeding it out in increasing quantities only as the price was marked higher and higher. This created international friction which at one time threatened to become a grave political isue between America and Britain. Secretary of Commerce Hoover ardently championed America's cause. Now the whole plan has been abandoned as unworkable.

Rubber is quoted on the New York Rubber Exchange this week around 18¼ cents per pound, which must be regarded as very low—in fact, producers claim that current prices are below the cost of production in most places.

Now that foreigners have dropped their selling pool, it is to be hoped that no fresh friction will develop through any resented pool buying operations by the industry in this country.

Natural markets—like most natural things—are the best in the end.

New York Curb

New York, Nov. 15—Massey Harris jumped 14½ points to 84⅞, its highest price on record, in the Curb market today. Price movements were greatly confused. Gotham Knit Back sold at 20¼, up 1, for 5000 shares. Union Tobacco, in an opening sale of 1700 shares, declined 2¼ to 25⅜. Barnsdall debenture rights opened down ⅝, at 24⅞, for 2000 shares, while a gain of 2⅝ points was recorded by American Cyanamid B, selling at 45¼ for 2000 shares. In an initial transaction involving 6700 shares Northeastern Power advanced 1¾ to 46⅜. Saf-T-Stat lost 2½, at 42, and Hart Parr declined 1⅜ to 53¾. Bancitaly rose 1⅞ to 126⅛, while Newmont Mining declined 2¼ to 187¾.

GREAT Northern Paper Co. declared regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share, payable Dec. 1.

U. S. BALANCE OF TRADE UP

Washington, Nov. 15 (AP)—Exports of the United States for October were 555,000,000 and imports for the same month were $357,-000,000, giving this country a favorable trade balance of $198,000,000.

Preliminary figures made pubuc by the commerce department today fixed exports for the 10 months ending with October at $4,113,592,000 and imports at $3,427,069,000, giving the United States a favorable trade balance for that period of $686,523,-000.

During October this year, the United States imported $14,310,000 in gold and exported $990,000. Silver imported amounted to 7,310,000 and silver exports were $7,238,000.

The amount of exports shipped from the United States in October of this year, $555,000,000, was greater than that for any single month since January, 1921.

INVESTMENT COMPANIES ADDED TO BOSTON LIST

Two more investment companies have been added to the Boston Stock Exchange list through the admittance of the stocks of the Haygart Corporation and American & General Securities Corporation for trading purposes. At this time 50,000 no-par Haygart shares are admitted, with authority given to add 200,000 more shares. The corporation was formed in Delaware on November 9 last. The American & General Securities issue totals 200,000 of $3 series first preferred allotment certificates, each of which also represents a share of Class A common. This company was organized in Maryland on October 29 last. The company also has issued 315,000 Class A and 500,000 shares of Class B stock.

LEAD Industries Association has been organized by producers and consumers of lead to promote service and stability in lead industry.

Los Angeles Woman Social Worker Here For Hub's Probation Jubilee

IN discussing the advantages and some of the disadvantages of probation, Dr. Miriam Van Waters, referee of the juvenile court, Los Angeles, Cal., declares: "One hesitates to estimate the staggering bill for prisons the taxpayers would bear if all persons guilty of one dishonesty were locked up!"

This is a very timely topic, because today Boston is celebrating its 50th anniversary of the adoption of the Massachusetts probation system, the first in the world.

The Massachusetts Commission of Probation, with the co-operation of the Massachusetts Probation Officers Association will have charge of the golden jubilee program. Dr. Van Waters tells me she is to be one of the speakers at the annual dinner which will be held Friday night at the Bellevue.

OTHER SPEAKERS

Other speakers will be Dean George Kirchwey, former warden of Sing Sing, and former dean of Columbia law school, considered an authority on all matters of probation. Herbert C. Parsons, deputy commissioner on probation; Elliot Dunlap Smith, representing the industrial field, and Robert W. Kelso, the social work field, will be heard from.

Dr. Van Waters as a club woman and social worker, holds a most responsible position in Los Angeles, that of mediator for delinquent boys and girls. They come to her without the formality of the law, officers or lawyers and even without being sworn in, and she deals with these young offenders, kindly and justly. She has kept thousands of youngsters out of institutions, and proudly says that in very few instances have they violated her trust.

SCORES LACK OF EXPERTS

Of probation officers she says, "Our method of selecting them does not commonly give us men trained to be alert in detecting mental aberrations. Although we have experts in every other line of endeavor, our civil service commissions refuse to believe that experts are needed in this particular work. I am convinced that work for girl offenders is more efficiently handled by women than by men, women probation officers and women judicial officers; and with fewer cases to follow up. One State parole officer has 250 cases. When asked if that were not too many he said, "No I could handle 350—I throw the fear of God into them."

"A city probation officer in one municipal court has so many cases that, counting out the hours he must spend in court and making investigations, he would have 12 minutes a year for each probationer's social treatment."

Dr. Van Waters believes when a student in our public schools shows symptoms of strain and tension, it would be a good thing to refer him to a child guidance clinic, school counsellor, or visiting teacher. Dr. William Healy, she says, has pointed out the necessity of having all cases of juvenile delinquency studied thoroughly, no matter how trivial they appear to be. She would have a counsellor, or visiting teacher in every high school for girls, to bridge the gap between school and home and detect a girl's lack of interest in school work. Her contention is that girls as well as boys, show their first signs of delinquincy in school. The State of California has worked out this idea of a girl's counsellor in the high school, very satisfactorily, she says.

Washington Shrine

It Should Be owned, Preserved and Cared For by the Nation

When constructed, the memorial boulevard from Washington to Mount Vernon will be one of the finest highways of the world. The last Congress made provision for the restoration of Wakefield Manor, birthplace of Washington. Both these projects are thoroughly deserving. But they recall that the ownership of Mount Vernon by a private association is an anomaly beyond reasonable explanation.

The Mount Vernon Ladies' Association performed a timely and useful purpose in saving the Washington seat as a national shrine, but Mount Vernon ought to be owned, cared for, preserved by the nation.

The Mount Vernon Memorial Boulevard is a fine conception; but that boulevard, leading to a Mount Vernon whose gates are only opened on the payment of an admission fee, and are closed on Sunday when most people have their only opportunity to visit it, is altogether too suggestive of building a toll road at Government expense for private profit.

What Will Children Be?

They Will Have a Marvellous Start

MR. AND MRS. EUGENE TUNNEY

This excellent photograph shows the powerful, intelligent and handsome young world's champion, Gene Tunney, and his beautiful wife.

The world congratulates Mr. Tunney for many reasons—for his power and courage in winning the heavyweight championship of the world after fighting for his country in a Marine's uniform in France—for the intelligence he showed in retiring from the prize ring at the right time, abandoning a career that was at best distasteful to him, when he had made sufficient money to provide for the future.

The world congratulates Mr. Tunney especially on having secured for his wife the beautiful Miss Mary Josephine Lauder, with every good quality that a woman should have.

Mr. Tunney and his wife are highly developed, mentally and physically.

Like her husband, Mrs. Tunney is an athletic, an admirable swimmer with unusual health and strength as well as beauty.

The world knows Tunney, the conqueror of Dempsey and student of Shakespeare.

Students of eugenics, the science of producing a finer human race, will ask the one important question, important on every occasion when young people are married:

WHAT KIND OF CHILDREN WILL THIS COUPLE SUPPLY TO THE NEXT GENERATION?

That is the question that interests the world, for gradually, men selecting wisely, supplying strength and courage, women, supplying moral character, the human race has improved.

Certainly from this marriage there should come, so far as human calculation can go, a fine line of human beings.

Mr. Tunney is deeply in love with his wife, which is MOST important to the quality of children. His wife loves and RESPECTS him, which is even more important to the children.

Everybody will hope that the children of these young people will be a credit to their father and mother and their country, representatives of the only REAL aristocracy, based not on title, or money, or ancient name, but on THE QUALITIES OF THE PARENTS.

However, fortunately for the average run of us, you never can tell in what family great genius will develop, any more than you can tell in what corner of a river bed or in

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—One of Manhattan's most amazing blind men lives in the purlieus of upper Park ave. At the peak of a brilliant career he was imprisoned in a wrecked sleeper abroad and frightfully scalded. A famed Swiss surgeon was called in.

For several days the patient was cowled in cotton and then a careful examination was made. The surgeon called his wife and told her her husband would never see again. The organs of sight were destroyed beyond surgical repair.

"Our fight," he said, "must be psychological. Under no circumstances must his plight be mentioned to him or must he be treated as one who is blind." He returned to his patient and a week later said: "You are the most courageous man I have ever known. See to it you always retain that courage." Then he removed the bandage.

From that day, seven years ago, to this no mention has been made to him of his blindness or has he ever mentioned it to another. He lives exactly as one who has full use of his optical faculties. He rides well and is interested in fine horses.

A brace of secretaries keep him abreast of the news of the day and the latest in literature. He even follows the progress of comic strips. When he is told of a good pay or a good look he will say: "I must read that," or "I must see that."

He has learned to walk about his district alone and while he wears black glasses there are many meeting him on these walks who do not know he is sightless. He has mastered the violin by ear and carried on the direction of a business.

Those who meet him since his accident have always been impressed by his cheerfulness. In refusing to submit to his blindness he has in many ways mastered it. By a sort of subtle sense he is able to describe certain things others see but which he does not.

A RESTAURANT recently had broccoli on its menu for dinner. Almost simultaneously every patron who ordered the dish began to look about wanly and hopefully for a little privacy. All required medical attention and recovered. It developed a poisonous fluid used by the grower in destroying insects that attacked roots had impregnated the vegetable.

THERE is a little coffee colored Panamanian boxer with a hefty wallop who has become a quondam figure along the illuminated Aisle. He wears black silk shirts with collars to match and flaming red four-in-hand ties. His cane is all white as are the buttons on his shoes. And dangling around his neck is a monocle attached to a pink string. "Jimmy Walker," observed a Broadwayite, "in mourning."

NEW YORK has seen the final word in motor stage coaches—used to travel from coast to coast. It is the first motor coach to provide sleeping quarters. Twenty-six passengers are carried—two in each compartment. The cushions of the seats are made into berths at night. There is ample room and wash basins with running water, also a compact kitchen. The buses will not stop save to discharge or take on passengers at certain points where relief drivers are picked up.

THE corner popcorn stand does not thrive in New York, somehow. In almost every other large city they have become institutions mended usually by gentlemen with a lion tamer's roach in their hair. A few are seen on the lower East side, but uptown they have become almost memories.

ONE thing may be said for the reputed bad manners of a New Yorker. He never raps at your hotel door without first being announced by telephone.

ADD metropolitan annoyances: Those gentlemen with "confidential messages" from friends who must see you in person and then try to sell you membership in exclusive clubs.

THE latest among New York's ultra sportsmen is polar bear hunting in Alaska. And most of us what with riding to hounds and such haven't yet caught up with our pheasant shooting.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

IT IS twilight and the train is crossing Georgia.

An hour ago and hills and trees were ruddy with the sun. Now they are pools of shadow and the sky is gray and still. Only behind a tile of slender pines one band of orange flames. And at their feet, half hidden in the shade, a little light burns in the window of a clay chinked shack.

A narrow trail winds through the darkening fields and on the trail a man is plodding. His tired face is lifted toward the light as he nears, the door is opened and a woman waits to meet him with his baby in her arms. The man's feet quicken—then the door is closed. The band of light has faded from the sky—the trees and fields are lost within the night—but in the shack the little light still burns.

Such a great country, North, East, West and South—

So many people with so many aims—

White faces, black, yellow, red and brown, each living by its own peculiar plan and creed—

Each thinking that all other plans are wrong—

And hardly ever meeting on one common ground.

But there's an hour when all think as one—

That hour when night falls in a gentle flood.

And lamps are lighted in the palace and the shack.

Then for a moment all men dream alike

And know one common hunger of the heart.

Then each man longs to take the homeward trail.

And see his hearth light burning warm and clear.

And find his woman waiting at the door.

This life is strange and ugly, often cruel—

But somehow there is comfort in the thought that for one gentle hour of each day we share that simple, lovely dream of home.

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

Morality was made for man, not man for morality. —Zangwill.

What is fame? An empty bubble; Gold? A transient, shining trouble. —Grainger.

He is not cheated who knows that he is being cheated. —Coke.

The fatal tendency of mankind to leave off thinking about a thing, when it is no longer doubtful, is the cause of half their errors. —Mill.

We are slow to believe what if believed would hurt our feelings. —Ovid.

You will find plenty of people willing enough to do the good Samaritan without the oil and the twopence. —Smith.

National Policies of the Hearst Papers

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and promote the peace of the world.
2. A constitutional amendment to provide for the election of United States Senators in numbers proportionate to the population of each State, but no State to have less than two Senators. A reapportionment of Congressional representation immediately after every census, or in case of the failure of Congress so to act, to make the apportionment automatic at the end of the first Congressional session, the proportion of population for each representative in each case to be that of the existing Congress.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defense.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal Government powers to abolish illiteracy among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.
5. Necessary measures to secure the election of Congress in November and its installation on the 1st of January following, and the inauguration of a President on the 1st of January immediately following his election in November.

The Eternal Mutiny

by Herbert Kaufman

Nursery yarns tell us how the other parts of the body once decided to boycott the belly.

"We're sick of doing all the work and getting nothing for it," they grumbled. "Hereafter we'll not sweat and toil for a lazy glutton who gobbles the entire fruit of our effort."

Whereupon the eye refused to locate food, the limbs declined to till and fetch—even teeth and gullet joined the strike against "that greedy profiteer."

But pretty soon mutinous members and senses found their own strength sapping away and realized, in ostracizing the stomach, that they were planning to commit suicide.

Later on, the working folk of Rome decided that capitalists and distributors were a parasite class, moved to a hill-top of their own and organized a separate community from which the "White Toga" element was strictly excluded.

Patient statesmanship first let them flounder in the muddles to which inexperienced management promptly brought them, and then used Aesop's apt fable to show how no one section of the body politic can succeed or survive without the assistance and co-operation of the rest.

Finally, Russia, disdaining precedent, takes a blind fling at the identical game, reconfirms eternal verities, and now desperately calls skilled captaincy back to industry and finance.

Civilization is an exquisitely balanced machine with stresses and strains distributed through the entire economic structure.

Nations are dependent upon no particular class; their burdens are proportionately carried by producing, underwriting, manufacturing and dispensing groups.

Prosperity is borne by farm and city alike; perhaps a high-falutin way of saying that give-and-take and get-together commonly rule progress.

All of which foregoing was, long ago, handily crowded into a single phrase and blazoned on the shield of America: "United we stand, divided we fall."

Epictetus was a slave, deformed, weak, feeble. But the power in his brain has inspired millions, including the great Emperor Marcus Aurelius, who, in his "Meditations," thanks the gods that he was introduced to the writings of Epictetus.
